WAR-TIME SECRET SERVICE REVELATIONS

Mr. Compton Mackenzie.

GREEK MEMORIES

COMPTON MACKENZIE
SUMMONED

CHIEF EVIDENCE IN CAMERA

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic
Messages Ordinance, 1911, Section 4, No.
17, 1910 a.m.)

London, Nov. 17.
The dramatic action of the authorities in ordering the suppression of a book by a well-known author on October 27, the day of its publication, had a sequel in the Guildhall yesterday.

Mr. Compton Mackenzie, writer of many popular novels as well as informative books on the campaign in the Near East, including Gallipoli Memories, was summoned, under the Official Secrets Act, with unlawfully communicating in a book entitled "Greek Memories" information obtained in Athens as a member of the British Intelligence Service during the War.

EARLY SENSATION.

A sensation was caused in Court when the prosecuting counsel indicated that the authorities considered certain details to be of such importance that a substantial part of the evidence will have to be heard in camera.

It is alleged that Mr. Compton Mackenzie, in the book, identifies an individual, now dead, as the chief of the British Intelligence Service in Greece.

The fact that the book is highly documented was held by prosecuting counsel to constitute its chief danger.

He alluded to the extreme danger of people in the Secret Service or the fighting services publishing information, the importance of which they were unable to appreciate.

FINANCIAL ADVANTAGE.

In cross-examination of the publishers' representatives, counsel for the defence elicited the fact that Mr. Compton Mackenzie could have made much more money by writing an ordinary novel than by compiling a book of this type. The case was adjourned.

CUBAN CYCLONE DISASTER

KING'S MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

London, Nov. 16.
The President of Cuba, who the recent hurricane wrecked the town of Santa Cruz, del Sur, causing the death of probably two thousand people, has received the following telegram of sympathy from the King, "I am greatly grieved, Monsieur le President, to learn of the great loss of life and damage to property which resulted from the cyclone and hasten to send you my very deep sympathy."

Replying President Gerardo Machado expressed himself as deeply grateful for the expression of sympathy.—British Wireless.

NEW DISARMAMENT PROPOSALS

BRITISH PLAN TO BE OUTLINED TO-DAY

London, Nov. 16.
Before Parliament is prorogued to-morrow morning, a White Paper containing the new British disarmament proposals will be laid.

Sir John Simon will simultaneously make a similar declaration of British policy before the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference at Geneva.—British Wireless.

KING'S SPEECH

CABINET CONSIDERS THE DRAFT.

London, Nov. 16.
A Cabinet meeting to-day considered the draft of the King's speech to be delivered at the State Opening of the new Parliamentary Session next Tuesday.—British Wireless.

PRINCE OF WALES IN BELFAST

WILD SCENES OF ENTHUSIASM

GREAT CROWDS IN GAY STREETS

London, Nov. 16.
The first visit of the Prince of Wales to Northern Ireland was marked by almost unprecedented scenes of fervour.

Along the four-mile route through Belfast from the quayside to Stormont, great crowds lined the streets and gave a wildly enthusiastic greeting to the Prince as he drove to perform the opening ceremony of the new Parliament Building.

Although he had requested that economy be practised by the civil authorities on street decorations, private citizens had decked their houses with flags and streamers all over the city.

Rain fell heavily during the procession but the Prince insisted on driving in an open car.

Awaiting the Prince in the great hall at Stormont were the Northern Ireland Cabinet and a host of distinguished Irishmen.

WORLD DIFFICULTIES.

The opening ceremony was performed by the Prince on behalf of the King, from whom he delivered a message of greeting. The Prince said it was his father's earnest prayer that they should meet the difficulties confronting the whole world as well as their own special problems with the courage and tenacity, the loyalty and devotion which had made Northern Irishmen famous in the annals of Empire.

The Prince afterwards proceeded through cheering crowds to the City Hall where an address of welcome was delivered.

His visit to Ulster will extend over three days and will include a tour of representative industries.—Reuter and British Wireless.

QUARREL IN ICE HOUSE STREET

DR. KEW ALLEGES
ASSAULT

"SELF-DEFENCE"

A variance between two well known Ice House Street brokers which had its sequel in the Police Court last week, was echoed this morning when Dr. Fred Kew, who last week was, with Yau Lok-pin, another broker, bound over on a charge of assaulting Yau, took out a cross-summons of assault in connexion with the same incident.

The case came before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, when Mr. H. C. Lim, appearing for the defendant Yau, said that his client struck Dr. Kew only in self defence. The evidence went to show that it was Dr. Kew who was the aggressive party in the case. The proceedings were adjourned until Saturday week.

Through falling whilst riding a bicycle in Queen's Road, West, near the Taping Theatre yesterday, Li "Sing" Ho, aged 16, a son of a shop at 171, Kennedy Road, received injuries to his face, requiring treatment at the Government Civil Hospital.

ELIAS CASE DRAMA

INTERVENTION BY YOUNG WOMAN

STANDS SURETY

EARL RUSSELL ALSO OFFERS BAIL

London, Nov. 16.
Surprise followed upon surprise in the Bow Street Police Court to-day when Sidney Job Elias, chairman of the National Unemployed Workers Movement, was committed for trial.

He is charged with inciting W.A.L. Hunnington, leader of the Unemployed Marchers, and a man named Lewellyn to cause public disturbance and disturbances against the police.

After some discussion between the legal representatives and the Magistrate, the release of Elias on bail was permitted.

EARL RUSSELL'S OFFER.

The first surprise came when Earl Russell (better known as the Hon. Bertrand Russell) stepped forward and declared his willingness to stand surety for Elias in the sum of £500.

The Magistrate required a second surety in the same sum, whereupon a young, hitherto unknown, woman, with bobbed auburn hair, stepped forward and said she was prepared to stand surety. She gave her name as Mrs. Helen Allan.

It is alleged against Elias that he has been working on behalf of the Third International to stir up strife in Britain.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUE.

He was in Russia in September and the police allege that they seized a letter on November 1, signed "Sid" when they raided Great Russell Street premises. The letter carried a Moscow date-line, and proposed dealing with the "police terror" in Liverpool and Birkenhead and emphasised the necessity of street agitation. The police allege that the letter is in the handwriting of Elias.—Reuter.

P. AND O. COMPANY DIVIDEND

NOTHING FOR THE DEFERRED STOCK

London, Nov. 16.
The P. and O. announce a dividend of five per cent. for the year on the cumulative preference shares, but the Company is paying nothing on the deferred shares.

The British India Steam Navigation Company's Board recommend the usual dividends of five and five and a half per cent. on the preference shares and two and a half per cent. tax free on the ordinary shares.—Reuter.

REYNOLDS MYSTERY

WIFE ACQUITTED
OF MURDER

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 16.
The mystery of the circumstances in which Smith Reynolds, the twenty-year-old tobacco millionaire, met his death in July last remains unsolved.

Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, his wife, the former Broadway "torch-singer," was in New York to-day acquitted of charges connected with the case, which the police believe was one of murder.

Albert Walker, a former football star, was held as a material witness originally, but was released when the inquest jury returned a verdict that Smith Reynolds met his death "from a bullet wound inflicted by a party or parties unknown."

WILD PARTIES.

In the last three of his short 20 years, Smith Reynolds had crowded two marriages, a divorce, a flight around the world, and many an erratic adventure. There were parties at his big estate, Reynolds, to which he brought many remarkable people he had met on his restless excursions.

No-one appears to know what actually happened on the morning of July 6.

SUICIDE DISCOUNTED.

Suicide was the first construction placed on the tragic affair, but the coroner's investigation revealed several curious things. Bloodstains were found about the room and there was also a blood-stained towel in the bathroom, upsetting the original supposition that Reynolds shot himself while lying on his bed and that he did not move afterwards.

INVENTOR AT NINE

CAR-THIEF WARNING ON SOAP-BOX "CAR"

A boy of nine, Kenneth Cheeseman, of Constantine-road, Colchester, was demonstrating an invention of his own at the International Exhibition of Inventions at Westminster.

Kenneth, the youngest exhibitor, has invented an ingenious device for preventing the theft of motor-cars.

Through a hidden key switch normal circuits are diverted so that when the car thief puts his foot on the accelerator or takes off the brake siren shrieks.

A red light flashes in the head lamps.

"You see," Kenneth explained to a reporter, "I have a home-made motor-car. It is really a sugar-box on wheels, but it runs splendidly—especially downhill!" "I thought it would be dreadful to lose it, and at last I thought of this idea. My daddy helped me to fit it to my soap-box car."

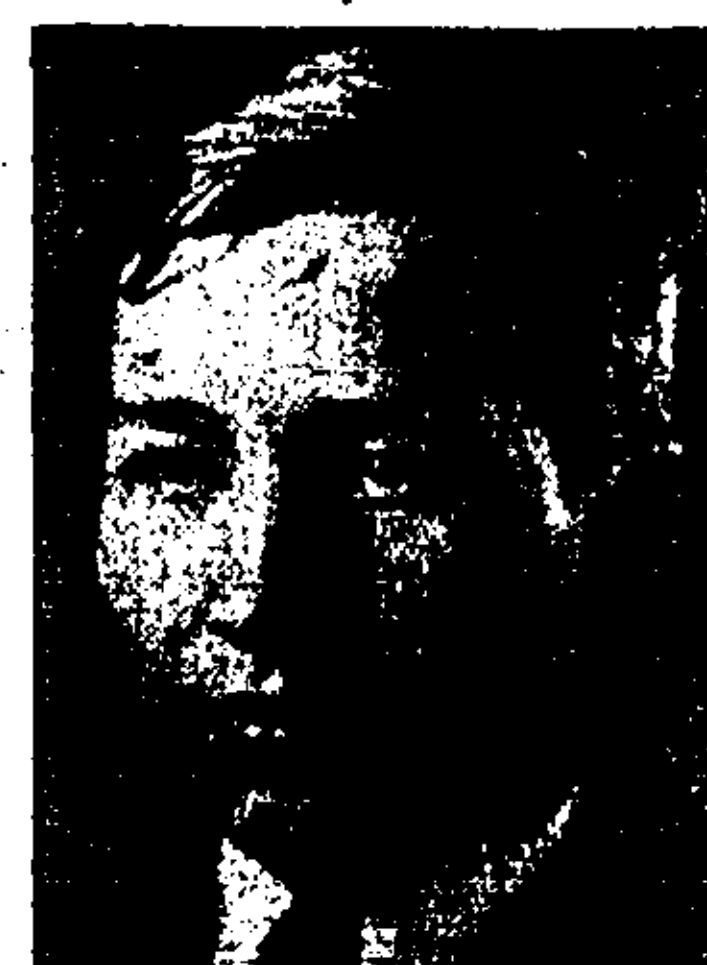

TOKYO TYPHOON

OFFICIAL REPORT SHOWS HEAVY-LOSSES

Tokyo, Nov. 16.
Heavy losses in the typhoon are revealed in official figures that have been published.

In Tokyo and the six neighbouring prefectures there were 68 dead and 46 injured while 82 people are reported as missing. 4,792 houses were destroyed, 10,287 partially destroyed and 62,043 flooded.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

Stated to have been assaulted by an unknown Chinese at Tain Nan Street, Shamshuipo, Ling Tak, aged 41, of 232, Hollywood Road, received injuries to his face and body and was admitted to the Kwong Wah Hospital for treatment.

Smith Reynolds, millionaire many times over, victim of the mysterious affair.

BURMA SURPRISE

ANTI-SEPARATIST MAJORITY

ELECTION RESULT

Rangoon, Nov. 17.
The electorate sprung a profound surprise upon official circles in the elections to the Legislative Council.

The main issue between the candidates was whether or not Burma should be separated from India. The separation was recommended at the meetings of the Burma Round Table Conference and it was thought that the majority of the people of Burma were supporters of the separatist movement.

The anti-separatists, however, obtained forty-one seats and the Separatists only 28. Neutrals were elected to nine seats, while two results are still outstanding. In one of these, all the candidates are anti-separatists.

Thus the Legislative Councilors who are opposed to separation will have a complete majority of contested seats.

It is still hoped by the Separatists, however, that a change of view will prevail before the meeting of the Council, in which there are also twenty-three nominated and ex-officio members.—Reuter.

MISTAKEN IMPRESSION.

Answering a Commons question regarding the Burmese elections the Secretary for India, Sir Samuel Hoare, said the position was not yet clear, but he had good reason to believe that many of those who voted for the anti-separation candidates were still under the mistaken impression that it was open to Burma to enter the Indian Federation on terms that would enable her to leave it when she wished.

The Prime Minister indicated on 12th January, and he himself stated in sufficiently plain terms on 27th June, that this was not a contingency which the Government were prepared to contemplate.

THE ALTERNATIVES.

The alternatives before Burma were on the one hand separation from India in the immediate future and the pursuit of her own political destiny on the basis of the constitution outlined by the Prime Minister and on the other, entry into the Indian Federation, in which case she would remain a province of India and would be treated in exactly the same way as any other province and would have no means at her disposal for withdrawing from the Federation.—British Wireless.

The three men originally arrested in connexion with the Jubilee Road murder were again before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning when his Worship remanded them for one week.

Captain von Gronau completed his world cruise on Thursday last week, when he landed safely at Friedrichshafen.

SHIP ABANDONED ON FIRE

DISASTER NEAR SHANGHAI

CHINESE VESSEL TO RESCUE

Shanghai, Nov. 17.
A Chinese freighter, the s.s. Fooching, has been abandoned on fire, beached on the coast just beyond Woosung.

Disaster overtook the vessel as she was proceeding from Shanghai to Chuenkow, in Fukien, with a cargo of flour and piece-goods last night.

When some little distance beyond Woosung, a fire was noticed aboard the craft, and S.O.S. messages were sent out, but the flames spread rapidly, despite the efforts of the crew, and the Russian master, Captain Boehm, finally decided to beach her on the coast in order to prevent her from becoming a total loss.

SUIKONG'S GOOD WORK.

In the meantime, another Chinese ship, the s.s. Suikong, on her way to Hankow from Shanghai, picked up the Fooching's S.O.S. signals, changed her course and proceeded at full speed to the rescue.

She arrived at the critical moment, put out her lifeboats and took off all the passengers and crew of the Fooching and brought them to Shanghai.

The Fooching is a vessel of about 1,500 tons.—Reuter.

FRAUD VICTIM ABDUCTED

TRIAD SOCIETY ACTION

NOW LIVING WITH POLICE

A remarkable story of how the principal witness was abducted by members of a Triad Society in order to weaken a charge of fraud, was told by Detective Sergeant D. Fitches before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning.

The defendants a man and a woman were stated to have defrauded a man of $500 by the well-known "white pigeon" ruse. The complainant was introduced to a girl who was induced to buy her presents and give her money but the defendants and the girl later disappeared.

WIFE WARNED.

They were subsequently arrested but, according to Sergeant Fitches, the complainant was abducted by members of a Triad Society and was not until a message was conveyed to first defendant's wife that the police knew where the complainant was being kept and who the responsible people were, that he was released.

The officer asked that an early date be fixed for the hearing of the case. He remarked that the complainant was now being afforded police protection and he was living at the Police headquarters. His Worship remanded the defendants until Monday.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

An example of an unblocking play known as the Deschanelle coup is given in the following hand:

♠K-Q-8-5
♥4-2
♦K-6-2
♣Q-10-8-3
♠7-3-2	NORTH	♠9-6-4
♥J-10-7	WEST	♥Q-8-6
♦A-Q-9	EAST	♦10-7
♣5-3	DEALER	♣J-9-6
♠7-4	SOUTH	♠2
♠A-J-10
♥A-K-9-3
♦J-8-4
♣A-K-5

The Bidding.

At contract many players holding five quick tricks would open the South hand with a forcing two bid, but when the hand contains more than three losing cards, the forcing two bid should not be applied. On this type of hand, the writer advocates the opening bid of one heart. West would overcall with two diamonds. North bid two spades, East pass and South would bid four spades which would buy the contract.

The Play.

East had the opening lead and led the ten of diamonds, the top of his partner's suit. Dummy played the four and West won the trick with the ace. To return a diamond would be granting the declarer an extra trick so West shifted to trump, leading the deuce of spades which the declarer allowed to ride to dummy's ten. The ace of spades was then led from dummy, followed by the jack of spades, declarer overtaking in his own hand with the king.

In order to get a reading on the East hand, the declarer now led the king of diamonds, East follows with the seven. Declarer now led his last trump and East was forced to discard a heart as he must protect his four clubs to the jack. The declarer discarded the jack of diamonds from dummy and West discarded the five of diamonds. The ace and king of clubs were then played from dummy. West followed with the four and seven, declarer the three and eight and East the deuce and six.

As East refused to discard a club on the road spade, he was practically marked with four clubs and four hearts. The declarer saw an opportunity to make an end play that might produce an extra trick for him, so he led the ace of hearts from dummy. West followed with the seven, declarer the four and East the six. Now the king of hearts was led from dummy. West played the ten, declarer the deuce and if East played the eight of hearts, the declarer could now lead the small heart from dummy which East will be forced to win with the queen and must then lead from his jack-nine of clubs into the declarer's queen-ten. But East, seeing the play that was about to be pulled off by the declarer, threw his queen of hearts on the dummy's king, thereby providing an entry for his partner.

If the declarer now leads a heart from dummy, West will win with the jack and cash his two good diamonds. To make his contract, the declarer must lead the five of clubs from dummy, West dropping the nine of diamonds and declarer winning the trick with the queen of clubs. He will now return the ten of clubs which East will win with the jack. West will discard his queen of diamonds and when East leads the eight of hearts, West will win it with the jack.

This play of throwing the queen onto the declarer's king is an unblocking play known as the Deschanelle coup.

CANTON PROTESTS

ARREST OF SURVEYOR BY MACAO AUTHORITIES

Canton, Nov. 16.

The National Government has been urged to take immediate steps to settle the Wang Chien village incident in which an official surveyor of the Chungshan district Government was alleged to have been detained by the Portuguese authorities in Macao. A telegram was sent to Nanking by the South-West Provinces People's Foreign Affairs Association with the request and made public today.

The Chungshan district Government sent a surveyor to ascertain the boundary limits of Wang Chien village and places bordering on Macao in view of frequent reported attempts by the Portuguese Government to occupy that village. The surveyor was arrested by the authorities in Macao and placed aboard a Portuguese gunboat to be tried by court martial. At the same time, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Magistrate of Chungshan, was asked to be present at the court martial but he refused to accede. The surveyor was eventually released.

In an indignant vein, the telegram says that "Wang Chien village is within the boundary of the Chungshan district. Since it is Chinese territory, no foreign country should be allowed to occupy it. The Macao Government committed a gross outrage by arresting the surveyor, and if no effort is made to check this encroachment, future dangers are beyond contemplation."

The Foreign Affairs Association strongly implored the National Government through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to uphold Chinese territorial integrity by settling the incident as soon as possible. Other public bodies here strongly resent the action of the Macao Government and are likewise asking the Nanking Government to take positive action regarding the matter. — Central Press.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXIV.

For the first time since their arrival at Three Rivers Dona and Dudley were now aware of Swergin's seriousness in the matter of capturing Stan Ball. All night after the raid on the main office men were riding and running about on foot. Morning found the entire camp roused for action, with the big timber boss handling his men as he would have on a river drive.

Dudley found the whole thing intensely exciting. The plan was to comb Folly Mountain as clean as a swept floor. Not a foot of the high country was to be left unchecked. Every brown bear, cougar and mountain sheep was to be routed out of hiding. It was a little like a small crusade. Dudley could not quite realize that the whole thing was not just a colourful pageant. The heavy guns and the plentiful supply of ammunition added the grim touch necessary to dispel illusions; those guns were muzzle-loaded with real powder.

Dona went to see Carter. She found him outside his office door, sunning himself. Carter was slender with a weak droop to his shoulders. He lifted a pair of colourless eyes to Dona's face as she greeted him.

"You are Mr. Carter?" The man recognized Delo's daughter but he did not get up. He nodded his head and continued to sun himself.

"I came to see if you were badly injured last night and to say we are sorry. Father cannot get about just yet." Dona watched Carter rub a patchy growth of black beard on his chin.

"I reckon nobody ever had a closer scratch," Carter held up a bandaged hand. "I reckon the Timber Company owes me some extra for this." His pale eyes lighted a trifle as they fixed themselves on Dona's face.

"Certainly, Dad will see that you are properly rewarded," Dona could not help wondering where Swergin had collected so many odd characters. Carter was an oddity and no mistake. Of course only such men would stay and work under the lash of Swergin's tongue and fists. Three Rivers was certainly a camp of the old school.

Carter smiled a thin smile but did not add anything. "You know Ball—that is, before he started his fight against the Timber Company?" Dona was seeking information.

"Sure. Know him for a strapping big cowpuncher that rode a black horse."

"And you saw him last night?" Dona put the question abruptly.

"Sure I saw him," Carter returned Dona's smile with a defiant glance that fell as she met it. "He steps right in through the big window and goes for his guns." Carter made a shift and dropped his good hand to his side.

"And what did you do?" Dona bent forward, all interest.

"I went for the gun I have in my desk. Then he cut loose and shot my hand," Carter touched the bandage gingerly.

Dona nodded sympathetically. "Remember, I will see that Father rewards you." She gave him a smile and walked back toward the scene in the big yard.

Dudley was riding at a gallop looking for her. He plunged up and pulled his horse to a ploughing stop in true grandstand style. "Where have you been hiding?" he demanded.

"I was poking about," Dona smiled as she noted the flush of excitement on Dudley's face.

"The boys have all gone. I'll be back after a while." He bent and kissed her hand lightly, then galloped off in a great cloud of dust.

Dona waved to him until he had vanished. In her heart she half hoped Ball was already beyond the rim of Folly Mountain. If he were not there was little chance of his ever leaving the slope alive. With a little shake of her head Dona ran to her father's room.

Asper was sitting up. It was plain that he had been very busy giving orders, as the floor was tracked with boot marks and cigarette stumps. Dona crossed to his side and perched on the foot of his bed.

"You have been violating my orders again!" she shook a finger under his nose. "Do you want me to move in here and make you behave?"

Asper grinned. "I'm the usual ungrateful patient. When I get well I fire my loving nurse." He caught her hand.

"You are not well and you're not firing this nurse!"

"Doc says I can sit in a chair on the porch. Now, as a good nurse, you'd better help me out there." Asper proceeded to swing his feet over the edge of the bed. "My slippers, nurse!" he called, as though

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

Dona were in the next room.

A tender smile spread over the girl's face as she ran for the slippers. Asper was nearly his old self again and would be well in no time. For a moment she was really happy and a great weight lifted from her heart.

Asper insisted on having his chair placed so that he could watch the slope of the mountain and the upper clearing. He was eager to get the very first news of the capture of Ball.

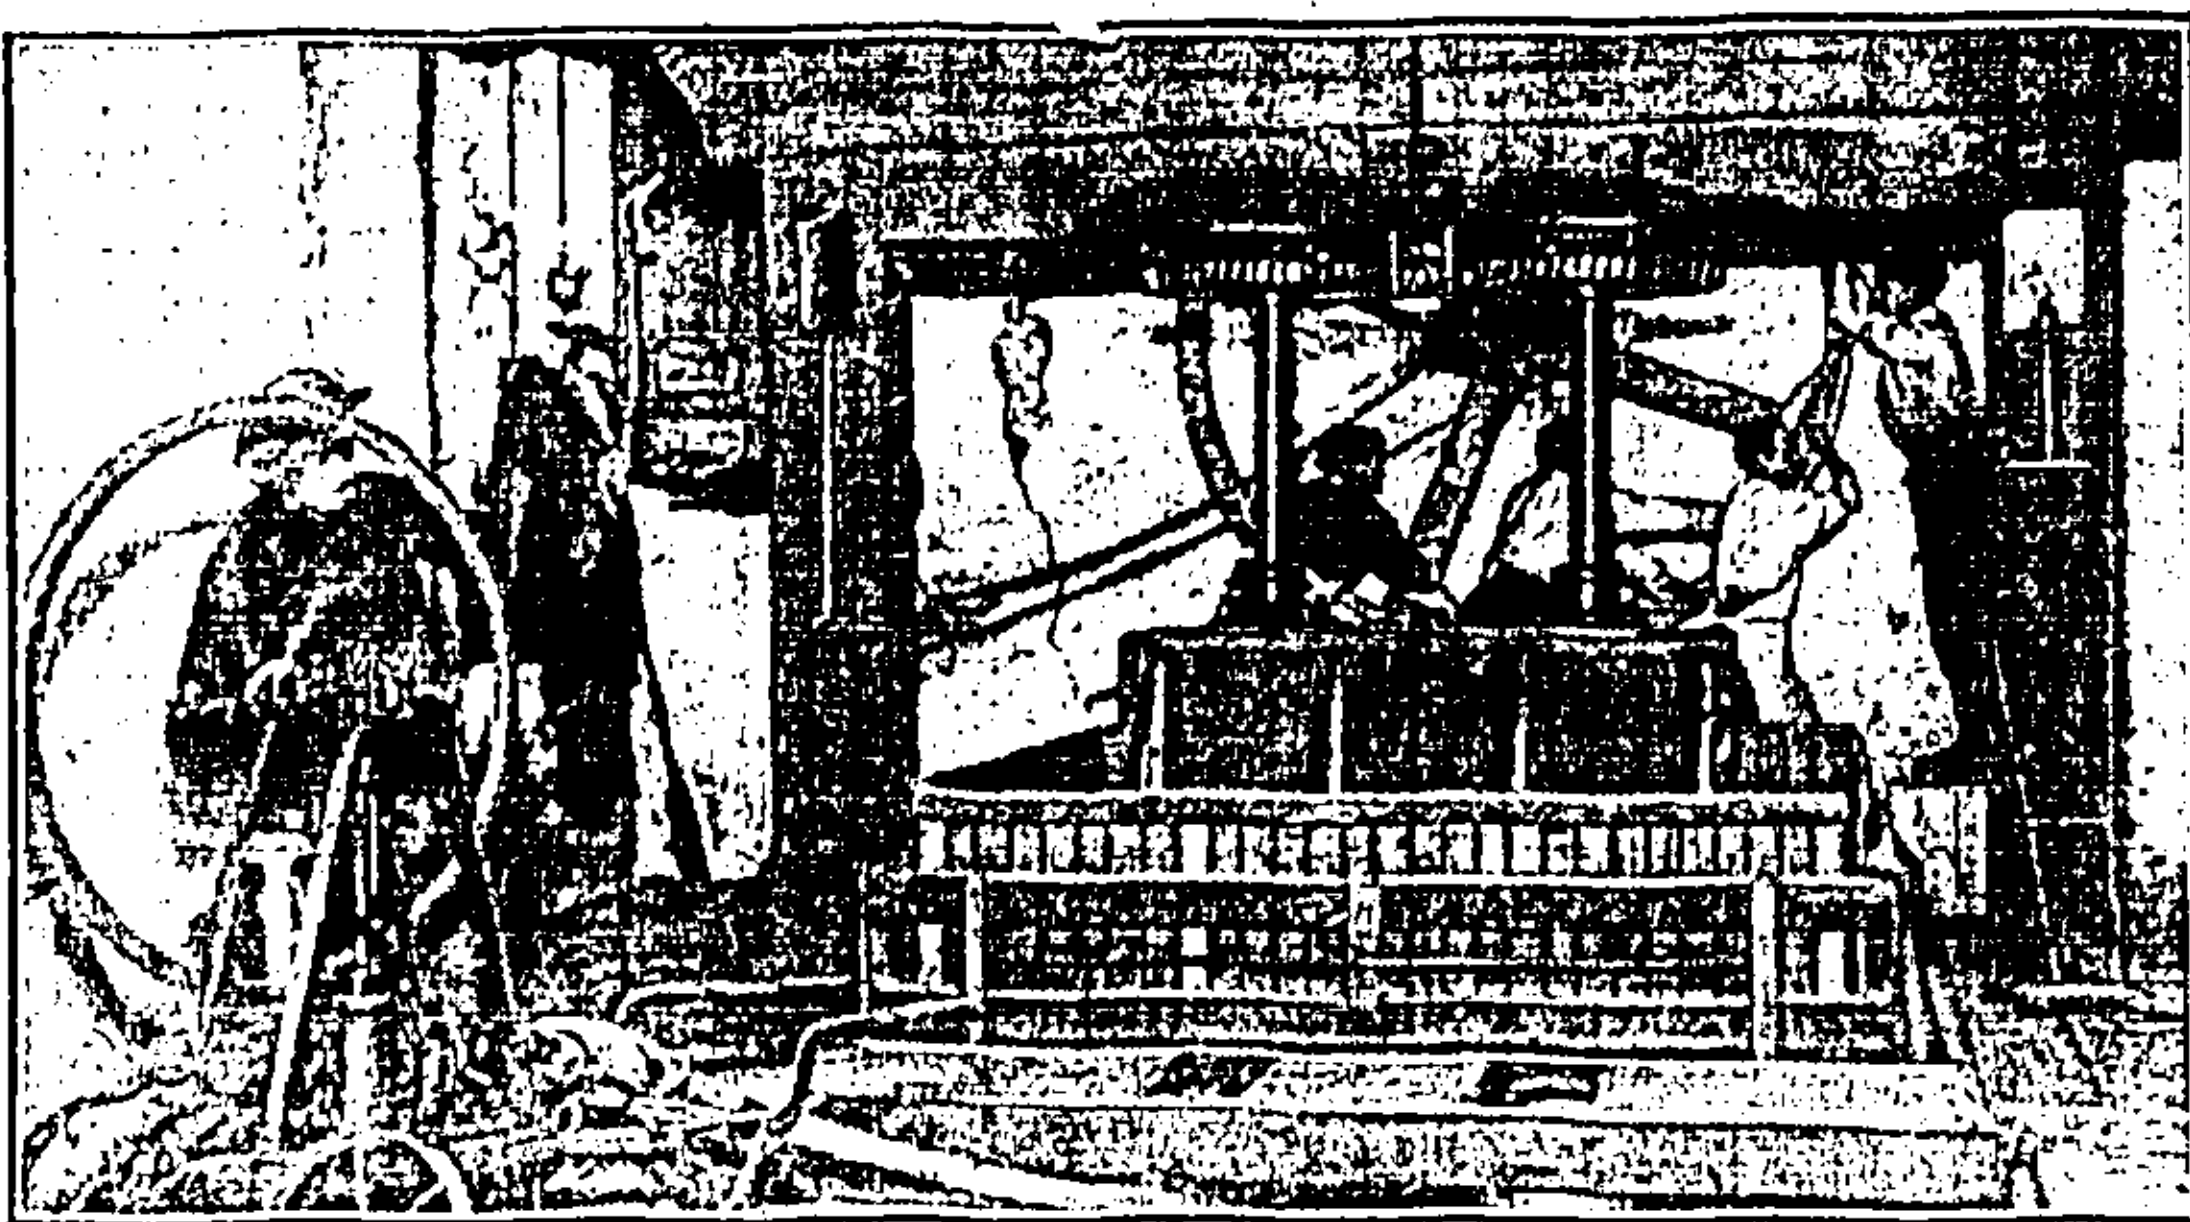

"They'll have him before noon, sure as shootin'," he rumbled.

Dona smiled and seated herself on the top step. She was eager to see what happened but she was not really anxious to have this hunt succeed. A thought kept bobbing up in her mind that would not be stilled easily. Here were dozens of men going out to get one lone bandit. The odds against Ball were 100 to 1. He was a lone wolf, a killer, but that did not lessen the odds.

Dona's thoughts turned to the previous day and a cloud passed over her happiness. Stanley Black had been such a disappointment. More than a disappointment, Dona knew, though she refused to admit it. With white sunlight playing through the green needles above her head and a cedar bird calling from the jack pine behind the building, she knew a desolation of spirit that even the recovery of her father could not banish.

A rider appeared at the edge of the clearing and Dona roused herself. The man came down through the cutting at a gallop. As (Continued on Page 11.)

No more Useless Brushing... Whiten Teeth 3 shades in 3 days

Even if your teeth have been dingy and yellow for years, and faithful care has failed to remedy this unfortunate condition, Kolynos will soon make them clean and attractive. Just a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush twice a day. In 3 days you'll see a great change. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter. Kolynos is remarkable. The moment it enters the mouth it becomes a refreshing, antiseptic foam which penetrates every crevice. Ugly yellow stain and fermenting food particles are all quickly removed and millions of destructive mouth germs that cause decay and ill health are killed instantly. If you want sound, gleaming white teeth and healthy gums—start using Kolynos.

CHINA
CO.

The following extracts are taken from the Chairman's statement at the last annual Shareholders' Meeting, February 29th, 1932.

"We feel that the Debenture holder from an investment standpoint, is just as much an interested partner of the Company as the Common Shareholder and is entitled to his just return on his investment, and by the figures given on the two years' working, I think we have amply proven that we were right that our Debenture holders receive eight per cent. interest instead of 5.5 per cent."

"The most successful concerns of the future will be those who recognize this principle—that even banks will allocate to depositors a part of profits earned on their money over and above current rates of interest. As our balance sheets show quite plainly, the proceeds from the sale of our debentures is not used for the purchase of Real Estate, as we are not speculators, but for investment in first class mortgages, amply secured not only by the value of the property pledged as security, but as a further security, the debentures constitute a first claim on the total assets of the Company. An analysis to the figures involved shows that every debenture has behind it assets equal to three times its value."

"If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8 per cent. upon your investment and/or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. are current rates."

BARTEX AND OTHER CURRENCY

The obvious need for a scientific money system has provoked a powerful group of British industrialists and commercial men to produce a scheme for the employment of an international barter money. It is to be called Bartex, is to be handled, apparently, by clearing houses independent of the great joint stock banks and will represent a fixed quantity of commodities, being therefore, it is claimed, automatically expandable with the expansion of trade. It is also claimed that frozen credits can immediately be liquidated by their conversion into Bartex, which any government concerned would guarantee to pay by the export of goods over a period of a decade. At the risk of doing the authors an injustice in the absence of further details of the somewhat elaborate antics proposed, we must confess doubts regarding the practicability of the scheme. An obvious difficulty strikes the questioner immediately: it should be comparatively easy to persuade a government to guarantee a certain quantity of exports; it would possibly be more difficult to persuade another government to receive them; apart from the problem of how many pounds of sugar are equal to one motor-car.

The authors, possibly working from the right end, have discovered a curious outlet. It has long been the contention of the New Money School of economists that money should be divorced from the gold standard. The ideal money, giving a fixed and definite purchasing power, can only be a money issued in strict relation to the volume of goods available. In other words, a satisfactory money must be a "managed" money. It must be barometric. If prices tend to rise, the money issue should be restricted. If they tend to fall, the issue should be increased. It is the modern idea that money should represent commodities in general and be controlled to that end.

The outstanding fact of post-war development is the ever-widening gap between an increasing productive capacity and a decreasing purchasing power, and, for that reason, it is being strongly ly and persistently argued by the modern school that the supply of money should no longer be dealt with as a commodity, but ought merely to represent that plenty which has now touched the point of satiety. Great Britain is confronted with the monstrous paradox that she is so rich in material wealth that she cannot maintain in comfort, to say nothing of dignity, the workers who created this wealth. She has a population of 40,000,000; yet ten millions can barely maintain themselves at a reasonable standard of life; five million hover between bare subsistence and a reasonable standard; five millions are at or below the bare subsistence level. The problem is of such magnitude and urgency that all other economic and political problems are swallowed up in it. It is the duty of all to direct their minds to the task of wealth distribution, and the first need is that the industrial structure be so integrated that it can carry the credit necessary to bring distribution into parity with production, while the system of money must be fundamentally changed so that money precisely indicates and represents production. Insofar as the authors of the Bartex plan have made an approach to the subject, they are to be congratulated, but a much bolder attack is required if success is to be achieved. The main thing is that they are seeking to escape from the desire for intrinsic worth in money itself. Mr. H. C. Wells sums up this aspect of the contest thus:—

"In the world of a managed currency they (the old school) ask, where are you to take your note and present it? The New Money School answers that it can be presented in any shop where you want to buy something. That, for the old school, is not enough. There is something, they feel, disingenuous in such a reply. Any commodity does not suffice them; they want a particular commodity."

His Excellency's Return.

With characteristic informality and an entire absence of "show," His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel stepped ashore at Queen's Pier this morning on return from Home leave. The warmth of the welcome accorded them was ample testimony to their deserved popularity; the whole Colony is indeed glad to see them back again in renewed health and vigour, and looks with pleasurable anticipation to the renewal of those official and social contacts which have won for them both the affection and admiration of all communities. Happily, if we except the recurrence of the water shortage problem, the period of His Excellency's absence has not been marked by an untoward circumstance—the Colony has proceeded along the even tenor of its way with little out of the ordinary to attract outside attention. The year's finances may not have come quite up to expectations, while trade and commerce could certainly present a rosier appearance. But, if we glance at the world in general, Hongkong must still count itself fortunate that conditions are not worse than they are. Problems have, of course, arisen during His Excellency's absence, some of which, even if they have not gained much publicity, requiring the exercise of considerable statesmanship in adjustment. But Sir William Peel has been able to feel that the Colony's affairs have been in able and experienced hands whilst he has been on leave. It is therefore only right and fitting that tribute should be paid to the excellent services rendered to the Colony by the Hon. Mr. Southorn as Officer Administering the Government. Not by any means for the first time has Mr. Southorn filled this onerous post, and once again he is able to lay down the duties with a consciousness of having done well and the knowledge that his services have been deeply appreciated by the public. In the purely social duties of his office, too, he has excelled, in

CITY THAT NEVER SLEEPS

By ROBERT BERNAYS, M.P.

IN the intervals of inquiring into the political situation in Germany by day I have been studiously observing how Berlin conducts itself by night.

Let me say at the outset I am the worst possible man for such an investigation. In London my very presence can reduce the most hilarious party to the deepest gloom. I am in a perpetual condition of wanting to go home when the rest of the party are loudly asserting that "the evening has not yet begun." When hospitable friends therefore suggested personally conducted tours of Berlin cafes I feared the worst.

At first I thought that it had come. The tour did not begin until an hour when I had hoped it might be ending. Berlin night life does not really begin apparently until the next morning. But I must confess that from the moment we started, about midnight, my yawns ended. For Berlin night life, unlike any other night life I have seen, is night life, and it is enjoyed by German people. It is not night club life invented for the tourists. I have seen night clubs in Sydney and New York, Bombay and Winnipeg, and for all the variety there was in them I might never have left London.

Pursuing the Bath Fun.

But the Vaterland Haus, our first house of call, has to be seen to be believed. It is an immense glass house built tier on tier, rather like a design for the jacket of an Aldous Huxley novel. On each floor there are two restaurants, each representing a country and decorated like a Drury Lane convention of it. Thus in search of a Bath bun you find yourself in a Texas bar not merely with cowboys and wood logs, but complete to the last Hollywood detail with pictures of President Lincoln on the wall.

We moved to the floor below for coffee and had it presented to us by girls in peasant dress before a back-cloth of mountains and forests, to the tune of "Auf Wiedersehen," played by an orchestra arrayed like members of the chorus of "White Horse Inn." Arthur Collins himself could not have staged better the storm over the Rhineland, with thunder and lightning, followed by the sun and a rainbow, which we found taking place through the door opposite. This last entertainment we were allowed to witness without even the purchase of a roll and butter.

After this it seemed quite tame to go on to places where every table was equipped with a telephone so that one could talk across the room and be heard above the blare of the band, on where one could eat sandwiches round a lily pond with trees and real birds in the branches.

Einstein's Game.

But it is not only the middle class that can have its fun at night; it is all classes. Our next stopping place was completely different—wooden tables and chairs and bare walls. It was the meeting place of old fashioned Bohemia.

Einstein plays chess there, very badly, I was told. He achieves his real successes at a game called "Go," which has been known to take seven years to finish.

We plunged into working class Berlin. Though it was between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m., the cafes were as full and as noisy as in England four hours earlier. The talk was all of politics, and at times it flared up into an ugly brawl. Political feeling runs so high in these days that it is regarded as highly unsafe for either Communists or Nazis to stray outside their own political cafes. The hatreds of Moslems and Hindus hardly rival the antagonisms of political parties in Germany to-day.

Free Bread With Beer.

Here, too, I was brought right up against the agonising poverty of Berlin. I met men who admitted—and their appearance was a witness to the truth of their words—that they had not eaten meat for a month. It is the pleasant custom of some cafes to provide rolls of bread free of charge, like the salt and the mustard in English restaurants. Thus the purchase of a glass of beer gives the right to free bread, and thousands of unemployed exist for weeks on no other diet.

They will sit half the day and all the night sipping their one glass of beer. But they will see more drama than in any cinema.

The barman will be quite likely a Russian aristocrat who will be persuaded to describe the orgies of the Revolution, and before the evening is out an ex-Prussian officer, imagining himself back in the gay arrogant days of pre-war militarism, will be challenging for some fancied slight his neighbour to a duel.

At three o'clock the cafes close, but night life does not close with them. There are cafes which open only when the rest have closed down. Timidly I suggested that three o'clock in the morning was not an unreasonable time to go to bed, but my friends were as adamant as the Government Whips during an all-night sitting. I must see it through.

In six hours I had seen at least three facets of contemporary Berlin—the hectic gaiety that accompanied and followed the inflation, the indomitable courage of starving men, and the murderers violence of party politics.

The problem that remains unanswered is: When does Berlin sleep?

Winter Ills Forecast

By Dr. Edward Kelly, M.U.G., A.D.

Blue-nosed, we stand forth as the representatives of those people who don't want to be cured by professional etiquette.

We are convinced that, with the approach of winter, the people should be told of the remedies our grandmother used to use on our grandfather.

There was BLEEDING AT THE NOSE, for instance. All you had to do was to shove a door-key down your back.

Then there were HICCUPS.

While holding the breath, place the fingers behind the ears and drink a glass of water, at the same time counting up to one hundred in a low, deep voice.

FAINTINGS AND SWOONINGS.—First form a large circle around the patient so as to give her air. When only one person is in attendance it is best to round up a few of the neighbours. Next, loosen the clothing. You can go as far as you like with this, providing there are no wowers in the gathering.

Next, burn a fowl under the patient's nose. Then rub the hands and feet thoroughly.

HALITOSIS, or BAD BREATH. is an easy one. Cloves or pepper-mint chewed thoroughly will help a great deal, although some pin their faith in liquorice to alleviate this distressing complaint. On no account eat scented lozenges. Wives are a wake-up to this straight away.

BURNS.—There is no cure for Burns. The only way is to knock off reading him.

CHICKEN POX.—See Poultry section.

In conclusion, an onion worn around the neck will ward off colds, and practically anything else, and for bed sores don't forget that spirits is still the best remedy of all. It may be taken neat or with a dash of milk.

Quinine and whisky are quite definitely not good for fever, unless someone else drinks the quinine.

MOTHER MEETS LONG-LOST DAUGHTER

Unable to Speak Same Language

After a search lasting nearly 20 years a Southend mother, Mrs. Argures Georgiades (who was born in Wales), has been re-united to her lost daughter, Theodora. In the Balkan War of 1912, when the family were living in Greece, they were forced to take refuge in a French warship. Theodora, then five months old, was left in Athens in charge of a nurse and, when her parents returned for her, both had disappeared. Recently she was traced by her father, a naturalised Englishman, to Belgrade, where she was living under the name of Alexandra Savitch. Theodora's only words of English when she met her long-lost mother were, "Mamma darling." She repeated them over and over again, crying for joy. Her two sisters and her brother, whom she has never seen before, speak only English, and one of them a little French. Theodora speaks the Serbian language, a little German and a little French. The mother speaks English and Welsh, but Mr. Georgiades acted as interpreter.

LINK OF MUSIC.

Music has broken down the barriers between Theodora and her brother, for, though they cannot understand each other's languages, they spent a great deal of time to-day playing together, the girl at the piano accompanying the boy on his violin.

One of the girls was born in Athens, the other in Southend and the boy in Birmingham.

Theodora was adopted from a Serbian orphanage by a Savitch, then a millionaire newspaper owner. He went bankrupt during the war, but provided the girl with a good education in Vienna.

It is not unusual in the Balkans to find newspaper advertisements from children trying to trace their parents from whom they were separated during the Balkan wars.

EXPRESS HELD UP BY BOYS

JAMMED SIGNAL; THEN SANG FOR PENNIES

Three small boys, who held up an express train for 22 minutes by tying up the signal wires, heard the story of their escapade told in the Juvenile Court.

Prosecuting the boys on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company, Mr. P. W. Pine said he had come down from London especially to deal with the case, which the company regarded as a most serious one.

"Children seem to know," he said, "that trains stop at the South Wales junction outside Temple Meads Station, and they often go there to collect pennies from the passengers by begging, singing and doing tricks."

"This case," he said, "is far more serious. In order to stop the Birmingham express the boys went behind the signal-box and tied the wires, with the result that the signalman could not pull over the lever for the express to go through and a lines man had to be called and the obstruction removed before the train could proceed."

A boy witness said he saw two of the boys level the signal wires together with a stone and then tie them.

The boys' parents were ordered to pay 10s. each.

FOOTBALL CHANGES.

Alterations in Fixtures for Interport Week.

OTHER ARRANGEMENTS.

Owing to the Interport football team being in Shanghai on Saturday November 19, the matches fixed for that day will be postponed with the exception of the fixture between the Navy and the Club de Reccreio on the latter's ground. This game will not be affected as neither side will have any players absent with the inter-ports.

Other alterations are notified by the Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association. On Saturday next, November 19, the Second Division match between South China and the Lincolnshire Regiment will be played at Chatham Road at 4.15 p.m. and not at Caroline Hill as originally fixed. On Saturday, November 20, the Royal Artillery and St. Joseph's College in the Second Division will play at Happy Valley at 2.45 p.m. while the Chinese Athletic and Rowing team will play on the Club ground (home ground of Chinese Athletic) at 4.15 p.m.

LOTTERIES IN SCHOOLS

TICKETS SOLD BY CHILDREN

In a discussion on gambling at the Assembly of the Congregational Union at Wolverhampton a delegate declared that there were schools which at the end of the term organised lotteries, and asked the boys and girls to go from door to door selling the tickets. Children who would not do that were more or less ostracised.

Dr. Berry, Secretary of the Union, said that if definite evidence could be obtained by the Union, representations would be made to the Board of Education. Proposing a resolution condemning gambling the Rev. F. Lenwood, London, said there was an immense vested interest which encouraged the gambling spirit, particularly at the present time, when there was a wave of gambling coming over the country, especially from Ireland.

In the resolution the assembly urged its members to refuse to tolerate raffles, lotteries, and other competitions depending on chance in the raising of money for church funds, and to undertake a campaign against gambling.

It also asked them to support legislation against gambling, and in particular to oppose proposals to legalise sweepstakes or lotteries for the supposed benefit of hospitals or other charitable purposes.

CLOSER BONDS.

The Assembly appointed a commission to consider whether a closer bond between the Congregational Churches was necessary in order to promote their efficiency. Among the questions which will come within the scope of the inquiry are:

Is a closer union of our Churches into one body incompatible with any principle which Congregationalists ought to maintain?

Are our ministers properly remunerated, and is the present inequality of their stipends a hindrance to the work of our Churches?

Is it desirable to establish a central sustentation fund from which all recognised ministers in charge of churches should be paid a minimum stipend?

Mr. C. F. Andrews, a friend of Mr. Gandhi's, told the Assembly that when Gandhi's life was in serious danger as a result of his long fast, the Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, the head of Orthodox Brahminism, sent cables to the Archbishops of Canterbury and York imploring them, in the name of Christ, to come to the aid of India in her hour of need.

Mr. Andrews said he longed for the day when untouchability would be removed not only in India, but everywhere where Christians refused to worship with their brethren whose complexion was slightly darker than their own.

GOVERNOR MURDERED

EXECUTIVE OF SPANISH GUINEA STRANGLED

London, Nov. 16.

It is officially announced in Madrid that the Governor of Spanish Guinea, General Sotelo, has been assassinated by a sergeant of the Colonial Guard during a visit of inspection to the West African island of Annobon.

An unofficial report says that the Governor was strangled at a ball organised in his honour. —Our Own Correspondent.

SANCTUARY OF THE SIBYL

DISCOVERY AFTER 1,200 YEARS

STILL AS DESCRIBED BY VIRGIL

The 2,500-year-old sanctuary of the Cumaean Sibyl has been found at Cuma, near Naples, after 1,200 years of conjecture and several hundred years of search. Within the sanctuary is the private rough newa enameled with the Sibyl ordered her predictions on the late of Rome. The surroundings are exactly as described by Virgil in the Sixth book of the Aeneid.

Evidence has also been brought to light that the sanctuary was used in the First Century in the Christian era as the refuge and burial place of Christians.

The discovery is the result of four years' survey and excavation by a team of Italian archaeologists, headed by Prof. Massimo Palladino, and his work at the site of the sanctuary. Happening by chance on an unexpected cave three months ago, the excavators began secret excavations which have led to today's revelations.

It is now confirmed that the vast subterranean basins on the eastern side of the Cumaean site is not the Sibyl's grotto as was hitherto conjectured. The real relic is shown to be a series of corridors and chambers of perfect Greek workmanship, also known as the "Sibyl's cave" on the western brow of the hill.

Every detail is in perfect keeping with the poetic description of Virgil and the ruins with later writers of the Fourth and Sixth Centuries prior to the collapse and loss of the entrance.

THE INNER SANCTUARY.

The inner sanctuary of one of the most famous oracles of the ancient world was a vault 39 feet long, half as broad, and 20 feet high. Near it is an ante-room with two stone seats whence trembling devotees were conducted by priestesses to the dread presence of the Sibyl and the smouldering tripod.

From the inner sanctuary, a corridor, finely and symmetrically cut in trapezoidal form, makes a dramatic line of approach for the mystic prophetic, because it is cut by a series of shafts which allow bands of light to enter so that the moving figure would seem to appear and disappear.

By the vault, three recesses are hewn with three baths and water channels where the Sibyl carried out the bathing rites before prophesying.

In another adjacent gallery is the grotto where she lived. At every aperture and every pillar of all the galleries, the huge sockets of the "entry doors" have been discerned, and cunningly cut openings in the rock magnify and multiply the "rush of responding voices."

There are also traces of a secret stairway leading to the Temple of Apollo and the hall above.

DISCOVERER'S SECRET.

The manner of the discovery is no less dramatic than the discovery itself. Three months ago, while examining the top "doors" of the hill and trying to reason out the solution of its hidden secrets, Professor Majuri came on a recess cut into the rock and used as a vineyard wine store. Behind the demi-johns, he noticed, beneath the encrusted earth, a perfect piece of stucco work, evidently of classic Greek workmanship. Intuition told him that he was on the verge of a great discovery.

Saying nothing to the outer world, he had the wall cleared and penetrated. Exploration with ropes and lanterns revealed a corridor which led into the heart of the hill for 300 feet, and then he stumbled on the network of sanctuary chambers—and the residence of the Cumaean Sibyl was at last re-found.

Professor Majuri has noted that the exterior of the Sibyl's ritual baths has been reconstructed by the Romans. Evidences have been found also of the burial place of the last Sibyl, who was interred in the grotto when the cult was in decadence.

It has been revealed that the sanctuary has also at one time been transformed into a pool, and that in the first century after Christ it was a hiding-place and cemetery of Christians. Several skeletons buried in Christian fashion have been brought to light.

All is now practically cleared, and the official report of Professor Majuri will be published in a forthcoming number of the "Bollettino di Studi Mediterranei."

Castrol
will mix!

THERE are still some motorists who believe that CASTROL will not mix with other makes of lubricating oil. There is no foundation for such a belief. Although an oil of peerless quality, CASTROL mixes readily with any other brand of oil; naturally, also, one grade of CASTROL will mix with another. CASTROL "R" (Racing) alone is excepted and should not be mixed with any other oil or any other grade of CASTROL.

The full benefits of CASTROL will not, of course, be experienced unless 100% CASTROL is in use. Therefore, the sump should be drained and refilled with CASTROL to obtain immediate results.

ROBERTS LEAVES SPECTATORS BREATHLESS

AMAZING RUGBY BY INTERNATIONAL

PERFECTION IN EVERY PHASE OF
THE GAME

MAKES POSSIBLE CLUB'S BIG WIN
AGAINST H.M.S. TAMAR

Club "A" XV 21 points
H.M.S. Tamar and Small Ships 0 points

A display of perfect rugby, never yet equalled in Hongkong, was served up by John W. Roberts, the Cambridge Blue and Welsh International when he turned out for the Club against Tamar and Small Ships yesterday.

He followed up a brilliant individual try by making possible Ferguson's subsequent score, and in every phase of the game he was perfection personified.

Below will be found "Fly Half's" impressions of the game.

Those Club supporters who turned up at Happy Valley yesterday to see John Roberts, the Welsh rugby international play were entertained to a display of centre three-quarter play so brilliant that they were often left breathless with admiration.

The game opened rather scrappily, but after Roberts had been given two atrocious passes right out of his reach, Rigg at last gave him a good one, and he ran brilliantly from halfway to score under the posts, a beautiful burst followed by a perfect side-step of the full back, all at full speed. Rigg converted.

Despite the valiant efforts of the Tamar team, who played with most praiseworthy vigour, the Club scored two more tries through Ferguson, who ran splendidly in each case, after Rigg and Roberts had worked out the openings. King converted one of these tries, and half time came with the Club leading 13 points to nil.

In the second half the Roberts-Ferguson wing was again outstanding, and each scored a fine try, one of which King converted to bring the Club's score to 21 points. The game ended in semi-darkness.

HALL MARK OF CLASS.

Roberts display throughout bore the hall-mark of class. There seemed to be no weak link in his armour. His attack was beautifully varied, the cut-through, swerve, side-step, dummy and short kick ahead all being used. His second try was a perfect model of the attacking short kick, and it is to be hoped that the Club backs were there to note how useful it can be when judiciously used. His defence too was above criticism, his tackling, picking up and kicking being alike first class.

Ferguson, playing outside him, revelled in his opportunities and in scoring three tries played 'the best game I have seen from him.'

Grieve also played well at full back, but the other players had perforce to yield the limelight to Roberts.

The Tamar throughout played up really well, despite the fact that they were without their full back, who was playing for the Navy against the Army, and their wing forward who was crooked.

ROBERTS ON SATURDAY.

Roberts has promised to play for the Club against the Navy on Saturday at the Valley 4.15 p.m. and I strongly advise any one who is at all interested in rugby to turn up and see how it should be played; and those who do not know the game at all come along and see what a thrilling game it can be when a man of Roberts class is playing. It is much too good an opportunity to be missed.

THRILLING GAME.

Army Tie With Royal Navy at Sookunpoo.

In a thrilling rugby game at Sookunpoo, the Navy tied with the Army, each side claiming six points. The game was full of thrills right to the end, and the senior service was fortunate to share the honours, their equaliser coming about two minutes before the end.

The score at half-time stood at 3-3, Macfarlane scoring for the Army and Barnes for the Navy. Lloyd and Doggett failed to add the extra points for their respective sides. Lieut. Martin put the Army in the lead after the resumption, scoring a good try, but Lloyd again failed. The Navy strove hard to get on equal terms and were finally rewarded when Barnes again broke through to score. Doggett failed to annex the extra points in a falling light and from a difficult angle.

FIFTH DEFEAT FOR R.A.S.C.

Signals Capture Mamak
League Points

(By "Bully Off")

The Mamak Tournament match yesterday between the Royal Signals and the R.A.S.C. was a very scrappy affair and resulted in a win for the former by the odd goal in five.

The Corps were the first to find the net in the opening stages of each half but were beaten at the finish. At the interval the teams changed ends with a level score of one goal each, and the Service Corps obtained the lead again soon after resumption. About half way through the second half the Signals again equalised and took the lead and match points a few minutes from time.

Lieut. Whiteway-Wilkinson scored twice for the Signals the third coming from the stick of Chaffey. Capt. Eve and Tipler were the scorers for the Corps.

EASY FOR THE CLUB.

The Club gained an easy victory over H.M.S. Kent on the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday winning by five goals to nil. They had the better of the exchanges throughout and Duncan in goal was not once tested.

The Civilians started with only nine men and about a quarter of an hour from the initial bully, Divett broke through and passed to Williams for the latter to open the account. Shortly afterwards Williams, following some fine individual play, added a second. The interval came with the Club two goals in the lead.

"TELEGRAPH" SPORTS EDITION

Whole Page of Features
To-morrow

To-morrow's Telegraph will contain a whole page of Sports features.

The final selection of the Interport Football team will be analysed by "Veritas" and prospects of the trial match on Saturday reviewed.

Well informed and reliable comments and hints on Saturday's race meeting will come from the pen of "Ringtail", and our other well-known contributors "Stumper" and "Bully Off" will deal with cricket and hockey respectively.

The Club continued to attack strongly and following a hard pass from the right wing Lay, on the left, slipped in and scored a goal which gave the Kent keeper no chance. Their next goal came after a combined forward rush when Divett snapped on to the ball just inside the circle and as the goal-keeper rushed out tapped it past him into the net. The fifth was scored by Williams from a melee on the right side of the goal and was a very lucky one. Owing to bad light the game was curtailed by Williams from a melee on the right side of the goal and was a very lucky one. Owing to bad light the game was curtailed by ten minutes.

Absent from the Club side was Dand, the captain, and his place at centre half was taken by Lowe, who has recently been deputising for Rodger at back. Rodger taking up his customary position.

MRS. "BOBBY" NOW!

NO wonder she's a clever golfer—she certainly has had expert tutelage. Pictured here while she was qualifying in the Georgia Women's Tournament at Brookhaven Country Club, Atlanta, is Mrs. Bobby Jones, wife of the world's greatest amateur. She took up the game only a comparatively short time ago.

BRENTFORD AND READING CLASH

AMATEUR CLUBS

LIKELY WINNERS

London, Nov. 16.

Even extra time failed to prove sufficient for Altrincham and St. Albans to settle their fourth qualifying round of the Football Association cup dispute to-day, the game resulting in a draw of three goals each.

Gainsborough, however, succeeded in vanquishing Gresley Rovers, netting four times to their opponents twice.

REVISED DRAW.

The revised draw for the first round proper of the F. A. Cup to be played off on Nov. 26 now reads:

Workington v. Scunthorpe.	Doncaster v. Gainsboro.
Accrington v. Hereford.	Leeds v. Stockport.
Darlington v. Boston.	Wrexham v. Spennymoor.
Halifax v. Darwen.	Narrow v. Gateshead.

AN ANALYSIS

(By "Veritas").

The tit-bit of the draw, which apart from Brighton, who have had to play right through, brings the Third Division clubs into the competition for the first time, is the meeting of Reading and Brentford on the Biscuitmen's enclosure at Elm Park.

Brentford, as yet undefeated in the League, are strongly placed at the top of the Third Division, with the Reading their closest rivals. The latter also enjoy the distinction of as yet being unbeaten on their own ground this season, and the advantage of playing before their own supporters should be just sufficient to place Reading into the next round.

The leading Amateur clubs such as Kingstonsians, Wycombe Wanderers, Dulwich Hamlet and Ilford have been distinctly unlucky in the draw, all four teams being drawn away to Third Division combinations.

Margate, Folkestone and Dartford, Southern League clubs have been fortunate in securing home grounds in each case, and both Margate and Dartford should enter the next round.

THE PROBABLES.

If they play according to their capabilities the following teams should enter the next stage of the competition:

Scunthorpe, Accrington, Darlington, Halifax, Southport, Carlisle, Rotherham, Crewe, York, Hartlepool, Doncaster, Rochdale, Wrexham, Gateshead, Tranmere, Hull, Walsall, Dartford, Bristol Rovers, Northampton, Bristol City, Newport, Queen's Park Rangers, Margate, Bournemouth, Southend, Coventry, Norwich, Orient, Swindon, Crystal Palace, Gillingham, Reading and Luton.

Chinese Ath's. New Bathing Pavilion

Magnificent North
Point Structure

OPENING SOON

In order to meet the demand for new and more spacious facilities for bathing and swimming, the Chinese Athletic Association have recently completed a magnificent pavilion at North Point.

Situated on the Shan Ki Wan Road, the building, which is to be opened shortly, cost over $3,000.

No less than 150 feet in length and 40 feet wide, the pavilion boasts a handsome verandah 12 feet wide. A slip-way runs from the verandah to the water and a platform extends from each wing, providing every facility for enjoyable swimming.

PERMANENT STRUCTURE.

The pavilion is a permanent structure mounted on concrete columns, with a wooden floor and asbestos sheeted walls. It is covered with a mahogany roof.

It boasts a large reception room, 22 feet in diameter, ladies and gentlemen's dressing rooms, cloak-rooms, showers and the usual offices.

The building was designed by Messrs. Clark and Lu, architects, of Des Voeux Road Central, and the construction was carried out by Messrs. Hop Yic.

B.B.C. OFFICIAL

MAY VISIT HONGKONG
EARLY NEXT YEAR

Mr. Malcolm Frost, who is acting as liaison officer for the British Broadcasting Corporation in respect of the Empire Broadcasting Service, will be inaugurated on December 16, will arrive in Singapore on February 3, 1933, and will probably visit Hongkong shortly afterwards.

Owing to the immense amount of territory he has to cover in a short time, it will be impossible for Mr. Frost to remain in Singapore or Hongkong for more than a day. Arrangements are being made in Singapore for all those who have views to express as to the nature of the programmes and other details in connexion with the Empire Broadcasting Service to see Mr. Frost immediately he arrives.

In the absence of official notification to the effect that Mr. Frost may visit Hongkong, no arrangements can be made in this Colony. Doubtless, however, advice will be released immediately it is notified that Mr. Frost will visit this Colony.

In addition to visiting Singapore, Mr. Frost is spending some time in India, Africa, Canada, Australia and other parts of the British Empire, in order to settle the final details of the scheme.

Arrangements have been made both by the Colonial Office and the Foreign Office to enable Mr. Frost to interview the authorities in each of the territories which he passes through, and it will be his object to ascertain as far as possible what are the desires of each Colony and Dominion as regards the programmes which will be broadcasted from the Empire Station. This will mean a discussion of programme material, the possibility of exchanging programmes with those Dominions which have their own broadcasting services, and with the scope for "recorded" programmes which can be supplied on a series of gramophone records to occupy any specified period.

B.B.C. Press Policy.

Apparently, it will be the policy of the B.B.C. to publish the full details of the Empire programmes in "World Radio", which is one of their publications, but, at the same time, Mr. Frost will make it his business during his tour to arrange with the various Colonial and Dominion papers that they will publish the main items.

Incidentally, Mr. Malcolm Frost, who is still under 30, was originally interested in a small private company which was proposing to organise a Colonial Broadcasting Service. On behalf of this company he has already made one complete tour around the Empire, but when the B.B.C. decided to enter the field of Empire Broadcasting, this small company naturally collapsed, and Mr. Frost has been absorbed into the B.B.C. organisation.

NANKING'S ORDER.

OFFICIALS TO BE PROCEEDED AGAINST

Nanking, Nov. 16.
The Central Political Council, after consideration this morning, ordered Li Kuo-chieh and Chen Fu-mu, the Vice-Minister of Communications, to be dealt with according to law for the part they played in the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company transaction.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

Ministry Consideration.

Nanking, Nov. 16.
Interviewed at the aerodrome before his departure for Shanghai, Mr. T. V. Soong stated that the Ministry of Communications was studying the question of the cancellation of the China Merchants' mortgage agreement. The Government had already instructed Mr. Chen Fu-mu, who had signed the agreement to proceed immediately to Nanking for questioning.

Questioned regarding the alleged League proposal for an international committee on Far Eastern question, Mr. T. V. Soong denied any official knowledge.—Reuter.

SATURATION POINT

TO reach Saturation Point is the ambition of every manufacturer and producer. It signifies that the sales of his product have absorbed output. In these days not many products attain Saturation Point; production is generally greater than demand.

IT is not so with soft wood. Here Saturation Point is reached and passed; sufficient timber cannot be cut to cope with the world's needs. Moreover, forestry utilization has been brought to such a fine art that there are now over 4,600 proved uses for pine timber alone, such as is grown in selected areas in New Zealand.

IN these fertile islands the N. Z. Perpetual Forests Limited has evolved a scheme of afforestation which is putting pine tree (i.e. soft wood) growing on a practical and profitable basis.

TO date over 85,000 investors of moderate means have collectively purchased more than 127,500 bonds, enabling them to share in the rich return their long-sighted investment must bring.

THEIR capital is steadily working in New Zealand forests producing the right kind of pine trees to meet the approaching world famine in industrial timber.

A Simple Story of Success

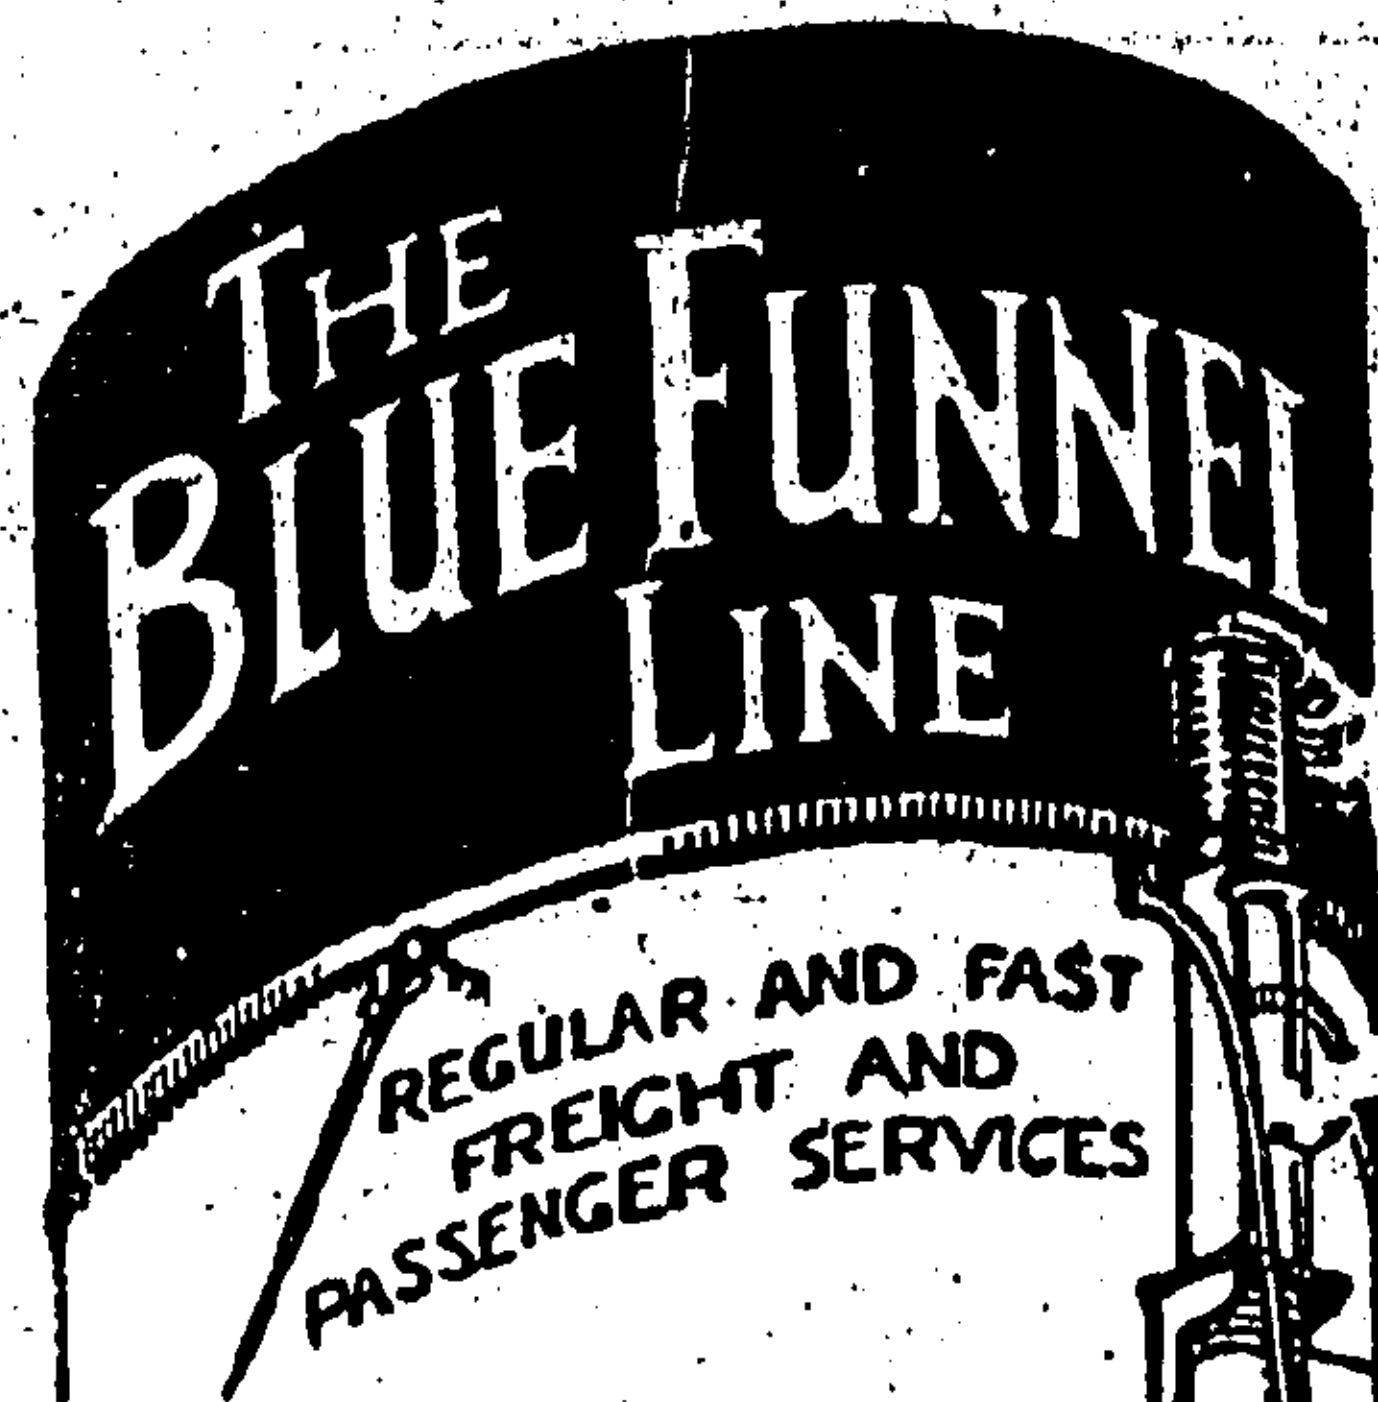

Nature did it! She placed Seattle nearer the Orient than other United States ports... and thereby caused the Port of Seattle to double her tonnage in ten years.

SHIP VIA SEATTLE... for that very definite reason. Ship via Seattle to SAVE... as other shippers do. Ship via Seattle to assure expert and quick handling of merchandise... and quick delivery to your American customers when the freight arrives in Port.

SEATTLE WELCOMES YOUR SHIPMENTS!

ALLEGATIONS OF FRAUD

WELL-KNOWN CHINESE ACCUSED

Amazing allegations of how a man was able to seize a vast business in Hongkong, with ramifications in French Indo-China, run it in the way he wished, and keep the partners and shareholders in subjugation for a period of years, were made by the prosecution when the trial opened at the Central Court yesterday of Chan Sik-nin, well-known Hongkong merchant and former Director of the Tung Wah Hospital, who was charged with fraud.

There are four charges against the accused, of forging and uttering a power of attorney, and by its means to have seized, controlled and managed the Chinese medicine business known as the King Fook Wo, of 66, Bonham Strand East, and to have misappropriated monies, goods and chattels of the firm to the extent of over a lakh.

For the accused, Mr. F. X. D'Almeida returned a plea of "not guilty."

The Magistrate (Mr. Schofield) said that from the details already brought to his notice and the general character of the proceedings he thought it advisable to treat the case at any rate as a criminal one—that was to say, take the evidence in the formal way as a criminal case.

QUESTIONS IN COMMONS

London, Nov. 16. In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Wardlaw Milne asked what steps were being taken to keep the Shanghai Municipal Council fully informed and were its views on all points being obtained in regard to the negotiations for a revision of the District Court agreement.

Mr. MacDonald replied that the British Minister would keep in touch with leading members of the British community in Shanghai, including the English members of the Municipal Council in connexion with the matter and would take into account their views as far as possible on all points interesting them before a decision was reached.—Reuter.

JAPANESE TO TAKE ACTIVE STEPS.

REINFORCEMENTS ON WAY TO HAILAR

Tokyo, Nov. 16. Despite the risk of Su Ping-wen slaughtering the 250 Japanese civilians whom he is holding as hostages at Manchull and Hailar, the Japanese military forces appear to have decided to take active steps to punish the insurgents now that Su Ping-wen has definitely refused to negotiate.

The War Office announces that several hundred recruits of the Utsunomiya division are leaving Tokyo this evening to join the division at Taitshar, while Mukden despatches report that part of the Hiroaki division has left Chinchow en route for Taitshar.

Fearing the safety of Su Ping-wen's hostages the Japanese have so far refrained from military action but an official spokesman hinted this morning that it may be necessary to risk sacrificing them.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

he came into view of the corral below a dozen men leaped from the shade of the saddle house and ran for their horses. Dona watched the oncoming rider and noticed that he headed for the corral. It was evident from the way he leaned far over the horse's neck that he was bringing news.

"Run down to the corral and see what has happened," Asper Delo's voice shook with excitement as he called to Dona.

"I'll be back in a minute," she replied over her shoulder as she ran down the steps.

The rider was pulling his mount to a sliding halt as Dona reached the corral. Malloy was first to reach him.

"Plenty!" the man grunted, sliding from his horse. He seemed to enjoy holding back his information. "Have they got him?" Dona burst out.

"Got him cornered and the gang is closing in on him. He was trying to make a break over the hill and into the cow country. The gang is up on the slope at the fork of the Blind River trail. They want all the rest of the men out there to help pull the net tight around him."

There sure is going to be some shooting!" The man slapped his lather-covered horse. "Get me another nag."

"Get the roan ready and slip my rifle into the scabbard," Dona ordered.

Malloy gave her a searching look that trailed off into a cynical squint. "You got the fever, too?" he asked shortly.

"Possibly." Dona met his gaze squarely. "But get my horse!"

"O. K., ma'am." Malloy bowed stiffly and vanished into the saddle house.

BOLSHEVIKS PURGE THEIR RANKS

Zinovieff and Kameneff Among the Victims

"PLOTING TO RESTORE CAPITALISM"

A clean sweep of twenty prominent Communists, including Zinovieff and Kameneff, on the ground that they were attempting to restore capitalism, has been made by the Communist Party in its drive to purge its ranks of "undesirables."

The charges against the twenty men, who have been expelled from the party, are that they were members or accomplices of a counter-revolutionary group who attempted to "create by underhand methods a bourgeois and kulak organisation aiming at the restoration of capitalism, and particularly, kulakdom, in the U.S.S.R."

The majority of the twenty, it is officially stated, had previously been expelled from the party for anti-party and opposition activities.

NOTORIOUS LETTER RECALLED. Zinovieff, whose famous "Red letter" on the eve of a British general election created a sensation, and Kameneff, together with Rutin and Galkin, appear, according to the Pravda, to be the ringleaders of this "class-hostile" group whose aim was the dissolution of State farms, and the adoption of such a policy as would convert "the Socialist enterprises created by the heroic labour and enthusiasm of the working class into concessions for capitalists."

Zinovieff and Kameneff come in for especial condemnation by the Pravda, which recalls that fifteen years ago, on the eve of the October revolution, Lenin had already marked them down as "strikebreakers" and had demanded their expulsion from the Communist Party.

In spite of that, says the paper, the party trusted them, and ten years later they repaid this trust by openly revolting against the

HONDURAS REVOLT

DISCONTENT AT OUTCOME OF ELECTIONS

London, Nov. 16.

Three hundred were killed and wounded in a twelve hour battle fought for the possession of the town of San Pedro on the north coast of Honduras, which is one of the first towns captured by the rebels in the rebellion started yesterday by discontented supporters of Sr. Angel Huerta, the defeated Liberal candidate for the Presidency.

Latest reports state that Federal forces are now storming San Pedro in an attempt to recapture the place.—Our Own Correspondent.

Defeated in their revolt, they made submission to the will of the party, and were again received into its ranks and entrusted with most responsible work. However, as the Pravda puts it, "the logic of the factional struggle prompted them to follow the line of conspiracy against the party."

RIGHT WING OPPORTUNISTS. Galkin, who is also expelled, is described as a former member of a group of Right-Wing opportunists. Among the others expelled are Slepko, who has twice been expelled from the party as a Right-Wing opportunist, Maretsky, who has also been previously expelled on similar grounds, and Ptashnyi, who has been expelled before for "Trotskyist activities."

The Praesidium of the executive committee of the Communist Party, in announcing its decision, states that the expelled members, although they were aware of the existence of this counter-revolutionary group, and had even received documents from it, had failed to report it to the Communist Party, and had thus assisted its activities.

In addition to those already mentioned, four other party members have been expelled on the ground of "opportunistic opposition." In their case, however, leave has been granted to appeal for a review of this decision at the end of a year.

CHRISTIAN AND MOHAMMEDAN

A UNITED FRONT URGED

U.S. LAYMEN'S PLAN

Christian missionaries should temporarily abandon their efforts to win converts from Mohammed and Buddha and join forces with the great Eastern religions in making a common fight against the Atheism of Marx, Lenin and Bertrand Russell.

This revolutionary change in policy is recommended in the interim report of the Commission sent out to study conditions in the Far East mission field by seven leading Protestant denominations in America.

GROWING HOSTILITY. The Commission, which was composed of laymen, was impressed by the growth of hostility to all religion and in their report they ask: "What becomes of the issues between the merits of one sacred text and another when the sacredness of all texts is being denied?"

"It is no longer which prophet or which book. It is whether any prophet, book, revelation, rite or Church is to be trusted. The chief foe of these circles is not Christianity, but the philosophies of Marx, Lenin and Russell."

"The case that must now be stated is the case for any religion at all. Thus it is that Christianity finds itself, in point of fact, aligned in a world-wide issue with the non-Christian faiths of Asia."

The report declares that it is clearly not the duty of the Christian missionary to attack non-Christian systems of religion, but to associate himself with whatever kindred elements he finds in the religions around him and leave Christianity to speak for itself.

This outspoken demand for a new policy in the mission field is causing as much perturbation among some denominations as the former fight between the Fundamentalists and Modernists.

The Bidding.

At contract many players holding five quick tricks would open the South hand with a forcing two bid, but when the hand contains more than three losing cards, the forcing two bid should not be applied. On this type of hand, the writer advocates the opening bid of one heart. West would overcall with two diamonds. North bid two spades, East pass and South would bid four spades which would buy the contract.

The Play.

East had the opening lead and led the ten of diamonds, the top of his partner's suit. Dummy played the four and West won the trick with the ace. To return a diamond would be granting the declarer an extra trick so West shifted to trump, leading the deuce of spades which the declarer allowed to ride to dummy's ten. The ace of spades was then led from dummy, followed by the jack of spades, declarer overtaking in his own hand with the king.

In order to get a reading on the East hand, the declarer now led the king of diamonds, East follows with the seven. Declarer now led his last trump and East was forced to discard a heart as he must protect his four clubs to the jack. The declarer discarded the jack of diamonds from dummy and West discarded the five of diamonds. The ace and king of clubs were then played from dummy. West followed with the four and seven, declarer the three and eight, and East the deuce and six.

As East refused to discard a club on the good spade, he was practically marked with four clubs and four hearts. The declarer saw an opportunity to make an end play that might produce an extra trick for him, so he led the ace of hearts from dummy. West followed with the seven, declarer the four and East the six. Now the king of hearts was led from dummy. West played the ten, declarer the deuce and if East played the eight of hearts, the declarer could now lead the small heart from dummy which East will be forced to win with the queen and must then lead from his jack-nine of clubs into the declarer's queen. But East, seeing the play that was about to be pulled off by the declarer, threw his queen of hearts on the dummy's king, thereby providing an entry for his partner.

If the declarer now leads a heart from dummy, West will win with the jack and cash his two good diamonds. To make his contract, the declarer must lead the five of clubs from dummy, West dropping the nine of diamonds and declarer winning the trick with the queen of clubs. He will now return the ten of clubs which East will win with the jack. West will discard his queen of diamonds and when East leads the eight of hearts, West will win it with the jack.

This play of throwing the queen onto the declarer's king is an unblocking play known as the Deschanelle coup.

CANTON PROTESTS

ARREST OF SURVEYOR BY
MACAO AUTHORITIES

Canton, Nov. 16.

The National Government has been urged to take immediate steps to settle the Wang Chien village incident in which an official surveyor of the Chungshan district Government was alleged to have been detained by the Portuguese authorities in Macao. A telegram was sent to Nanking by the South-West Provinces People's Foreign Affairs Association with the request and made public today.

The Chungshan district Government sent a surveyor to ascertain the boundary limits of Wang Chien village and places bordering on Macao in view of frequent reported attempts by the Portuguese Government to occupy that village. The surveyor was arrested by the authorities in Macao and placed aboard a Portuguese gunboat to be tried by court martial. At the same time, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Magistrate of Chungshan, was asked to be present at the court martial but he refused to accede. The surveyor was eventually released.

In an indignant vein, the telegram says that "Wang Chien village is within the boundary of the Chungshan district. Since it is Chinese territory, no foreign country should be allowed to occupy it. The Macao Government committed a gross outrage by arresting the surveyor, and if no effort is made to check this encroachment, future dangers are beyond contemplation."

The Foreign Affairs Association strongly implored the National Government through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to uphold Chinese territorial integrity by settling the incident as soon as possible. Other public bodies here strongly resent the action of the Macao Government and are likewise asking the Nanking Government to take positive action regarding the matter.—Central Press.

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXIV.

For the first time since their arrival at Three Rivers Dona and Dudley were now aware of Swergin's seriousness in the matter of capturing Stan Ball. All night after the raid on the main office men were riding and running about on foot. Morning found the entire camp roused for action, with the big timber boss handling his men as he would have on a river drive.

Dudley found the whole thing intensely exciting. The plan was to comb Folly Mountain as clean as a swept floor. Not a foot of the high country was to be left unchecked. Every brown bear, cougar and mountain sheep was to be routed out of hiding. It was a little like a small crusade. Dudley could not quite realize that the whole thing was not just a colourful pageant. The heavy guns and the plentiful supply of ammunition added the grim touch necessary to dispel illusions; those guns were muzzle-loaded with real powder.

Dona went to see Carter. She found him outside his office door, sunning himself. Carter was slender with a weak droop to his shoulders. He lifted a pair of colourless eyes to Dona's face as she greeted him.

"You are Mr. Carter?" The man recognized Delo's daughter but he did not get up. He nodded his head and continued to sun himself.

"I came to see if you were badly injured last night and to say we are sorry. Father cannot get about just yet." Dona watched Carter rub a patchy growth of black beard on his chin.

"I reckon nobody ever had a closer scratch," Carter held up a bandaged hand. "I reckon the Timber Company owes me some extra for this." His pale eyes lighted a trifle as they fixed themselves on Dona's face.

"Certainly, Dad will see that you are properly rewarded," Dona could not help wondering where Swergin had collected so many odd characters. Carter was an oddity and no mistake. Of course only such men would stay and work under the lash of Swergin's tongue and fists. Three Rivers was certainly a camp of the old school.

Carter smiled a thin smile but did not add anything. "You know Ball—that is, before he started his fight against the Timber Company?" Dona was seeking information.

"Sure. Know him for a strapping big cowpuncher that rode a black horse."

"And you saw him last night?" Dona put the question abruptly. "Sure I saw him," Carter returned Dona's smile with a defiant glance that fell as she met it. "He steps right in through the big window and goes for his guns," Carter made a shift and dropped his good hand to his side.

"And what did you do?" Dona bent forward, all interest.

"I went for the gun I have in my desk. Then he cut loose and shot my hand," Carter touched the bandage gingerly.

Dona nodded sympathetically. "Remember, I will see that Father rewards you," She gave him a smile and walked back toward the scene in the big yard.

Dudley was riding at a gallop looking for her. He plunged up and pulled his horse to a ploughing stop in true grandstand style. "Where have you been hiding?" he demanded.

"I was poking about," Dona smiled as she noted the flush of excitement on Dudley's face.

"The boys have all gone. I'll be back after a while." He bent and kissed her hand lightly, then galloped off in a great cloud of dust.

Dona waved to him until he had vanished. In her heart she half hoped Ball was already beyond the rim of Folly Mountain. If he were not there was little chance of his ever leaving the slope alive. With a little shake of her head Dona ran to her father's room.

Asper was sitting up. It was plain that he had been very busy giving orders, as the floor was tracked with boot marks and cigarette stumps. Dona crossed to his side and perched on the foot of his bed.

"You have been violating my orders again!" she shook a finger under his nose. "Do you want me to move in here and make you behave?"

Asper grinned. "I'm the usual ungrateful patient. When I get well I fire my loving nurse." He caught her hand.

"You are not well and you're not firing this nurse!"

"Doc says I can sit in a chair on the porch. Now, as a good nurse, you'd better help me out there." Asper proceeded to swing his feet over the edge of the bed. "My slippers, nurse!" he called, as though

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

Dona were in the next room.

A tender smile spread over the girl's face as she ran for the slippers. Asper was nearly his old self again and would be well in no time. For a moment she was really happy and a great weight lifted from her heart.

Asper insisted on having his chair placed so that he could watch the slope of the mountain and the upper clearing. He was eager to get the very first news of the capture of Ball.

"They'll have him before noon, sure as shootin'," he rumbled.

Dona smiled and seated herself on the top step. She was eager to see what happened but she was not really anxious to have this hunt succeed. A thought kept bobbing up in her mind that would not be stillled easily. Here were dozens of men going out to get one lone bandit. The odds against Ball were 100 to 1. He was a lone wolf, a killer, but that did not lessen the odds. Dona's thoughts turned to the previous day and a cloud passed over her happiness. Stanley Black had been such a disappointment. More than a disappointment, Dona knew, though she refused to admit it. With white sunlight playing through the green needles above her head and a cedar bird calling from the jack pine behind the building, she knew a desolation of spirit that even the recovery of her father could not banish.

A rider appeared at the edge of the clearing and Dona roused herself. The man came down through the cutting at a gallop. As (Continued on Page 11.)

Tongue Coated?

Long before you feel any discomfort—almost before you notice any irregularity—you know, by a persistent coating on your tongue, by the dullness of your eyes, that partial constipation is poisoning you. There is, however, one sure, safe corrective which all doctors heartily approve—Eno's 'Fruit Salt.' Eno has penetrated to every corner of the globe in the last 60 years. At the first sign of incomplete elimination—buy a bottle of genuine Eno's 'Fruit Salt.' Nothing else you may buy can do you so much good. Nothing else is half so pleasant to take!

No more Useless Brushing... Whiten Teeth 3 shades in 3 days

Even if your teeth have been dingy and yellow for years, and faithful care has failed to remedy this unfortunate condition, Kolynos will soon make them clean and attractive. Just a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush twice a day. In 3 days you'll see a great change. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter. Kolynos is remarkable. The moment it enters the mouth it becomes a refreshing, antiseptic foam which penetrates every crevice. Ugly yellow stain and fermenting food particles are all quickly removed and millions of destructive mouth germs that cause decay and ill health are killed instantly. If you want sound gleaming white teeth and healthy gums—start using Kolynos.

						$373,905	$269,141
							373,905

Earned above 8% paid to Debenture holders—$343,046

Of the above mortgages, there was assigned to investors:

1930	$ 6,532,660.00
1931	$13,223,545.00

A lower rate of commission existed in 1931 due to cheap money for the greater part of the year, from September, money commenced to tighten up. As it is we earned 1.33% interest in excess of 8% paid on our Debentures, in addition to $146,825 commissions. From the above it will be seen that our 8% Debentures are secured by first mortgages on 56.4% of value and backed up with $5,000,000 capital.

CHINA REALTY CO.

The following extracts are taken from the Chairman's statement at the last annual Shareholders' Meeting, February 29th, 1932.

"We feel that the Debenture holder from an investment standpoint, is just as much an interested partner of the Company as the Common Shareholder and is entitled to his just return on his investment, and by the figures given on the two years' working, I think we have amply proven that we were right that our Debenture holders receive eight per cent. interest instead of six per cent."

"The most successful concerns of the future will be those who recognize this principle—that even banks will allocate to depositors a part of profits earned on their money over and above current rates of interest. As our balance sheets show quite plainly, the proceeds from the sale of our debentures is not used for the purchase of Real Estate, as we are not speculators, but for investment in first class mortgages, amply secured not only by the value of the property pledged as security, but as a further security, the debentures constitute a first claim on the total assets of the Company. An analysis to the figures involved shows that every debenture has behind it assets equal to three times its value."

"If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8 per cent. upon your investment and/or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. are current rates."

OUR BRITISH CROSSWORDSAcross

- Supposed to be lucky, but, of course, it is all rot.
- One can do much with this which would belong to me without one.
- No cream for this Highlander—and when the report is returned there's nothing included for this soldier.
- Useful paper for photographers.
- A sight on a winter night—the consolation of O'Brien, as the schoolboy had it.
- Recent intelligence that is singularly fresh.
- State setting for a woman hunter.
- Varieties which a Scot sets in order.
- On many feet.
- A disturbance in the boat by the river control.
- Plays.
- It would be wiser to accept the coconut.
- Although it doesn't sound like it, this tool removes wood.
- Multiply by eight to get this.
- Associated with kicks in one's mind.
- Smooth enough, but I'd think it sullen if I were you.
- Follow the flower to make it wild.

Down

- Insects that follow each other all round the clock.
- Pure.
- We stick together, old man: your hand on it (hidden).
- Obedient.
- This point must be discussed.
- There's no need to die when you see Naples in the gutter's old Sunday hat.

- An indefinite distance and an indefinite time in a measure combine.
- She of the capricious head was the mother of a Scott pirate.
- A favourite place in which to take the air in company.
- Associated with Derby for valuable service.
- He who acts on impulse—it's nothing to you that the impulse is intermittent.
- It is clear it is many sided.
- Send about the gift—it's all part of the remuneration.
- Part of the river in which the boxer, as owner, has an advantage.
- There is something said about the noise that indicates there's a number.
- Do it yourself with a bit of an effort.
- Scottish river.
- A Zulu rising.

BARTEX AND OTHER CURRENCY

The obvious need for a scientific money system has provoked a powerful group of British industrialists and commercial men to produce a scheme for the employment of an international barter money. It is to be called Bartex, is to be handled, apparently, by clearing houses independent of the great joint stock banks and will represent a fixed quantity of commodities, being therefore, it is claimed, automatically expandable with the expansion of trade. It is also claimed that frozen credits can immediately be liquidated by their conversion into Bartex, which any government concerned would guarantee to pay by the export of goods, over a period of a decade. At the risk of doing the authors an injustice in the absence of further details of the somewhat elaborate antics proposed, we must confess doubts regarding the practicability of the scheme. An obvious difficulty strikes the questioner immediately: it should be comparatively easy to persuade a government to guarantee a certain quantity of exports; it would possibly be more difficult to persuade another government to receive them; apart from the problem of how many pounds of sugar are equal to one motor-car.

The authors, possibly working from the right end, have discovered a curious outlet. It has long been the contention of the New Money School of economists that money should be divorced from the gold standard. The ideal money, giving a fixed and definite purchasing power, can only be a money issued in strict relation to the volume of goods available. In other words, a satisfactory money must be a "managed" money. It must be barometric. If prices tend to rise, the money issue should be restricted. If they tend to fall, the issue should be increased. It is the modern idea that money should represent commodities in general and be controlled to that end.

The outstanding fact of post-war development is the ever-widening gap between an increasing productive capacity and a decreasing purchasing power, and, for that reason, it is being strongly

ly and persistently argued by the modern school that the supply of money should no longer be dealt with as a commodity, but ought merely to represent that plenty which has now touched the point of satiety. Great Britain is confronted with the monstrous paradox that she is so rich in material wealth that she cannot maintain in comfort, to say nothing of dignity, the workers who created this wealth. She has a population of 40,000,000; yet ten millions can barely maintain themselves at a reasonable standard of life; five million hover between bare subsistence and a reasonable standard; five millions are at or below the bare subsistence level. The problem is of such magnitude and urgency that all other economic and political problems are swallowed up in it. It is the duty of all to direct their minds to the task of wealth distribution, and the first need is that the industrial structure be so integrated that it can carry the credit necessary to bring distribution into parity with production, while the system of money must be fundamentally changed so that money precisely indicates and represents production. Insofar as the authors of the Bartex plan have made an approach to the subject, they are to be congratulated, but a much bolder attack is required if success is to be achieved. The main thing is that they are seeking to escape from the desire for intrinsic worth in money itself. Mr. H. G. Wells sums up this aspect of the contest thus:—

"In the world of a managed currency they (the old school) ask, where are you to take your note and present it? The New Money School answers that it can be presented in any shop where you want to buy something. That, for the old school, is not enough. There is something, they feel, disingenuous in such a reply. Any commodity does not suffice them; they want a particular commodity."

His Excellency's Return.

With characteristic informality and an entire absence of "show," His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel stepped ashore at Queen's Pier this morning on return from Home leave. The warmth of the welcome accorded them was ample testimony to their deserved popularity; the whole Colony is indeed glad to see them back again in renewed health and vigour, and looks with pleasure to the social and business contacts which have won for them both the affection and admiration of all communities. Happily, if we except the recurrence of the water shortage problem, the period of His Excellency's absence has not been marked by an untoward circumstance—the Colony has proceeded along the even tenor of its way with little out of the ordinary to attract outside attention. The year's finances may not have come quite up to expectations, while trade and commerce could certainly present a rosier appearance. But, if we glance at the world in general, Hongkong must still count itself fortunate that conditions are not worse than they are. Problems have, of course, arisen during His Excellency's absence, some of which, even if they have not gained much publicity, requiring the exercise of considerable statesmanship in adjustment. But, Sir William Peel has been able to feel that the Colony's affairs have been in able and experienced hands whilst he has been on leave. It is therefore only right and fitting that tribute should be paid to the excellent services rendered to the Colony by the Hon. Mr. Southern as Officer Administering the Government. Not by any means for the first time has Mr. Southern filled this onerous post, and once again he is able to lay down the duties with a consciousness of having done well and the knowledge that his services have been deeply appreciated by the public. In the purely social duties of his office, too, he has excelled, in

CITY THAT NEVER SLEEPS

By ROBERT BERNAYS, M.P.

IN the intervals of inquiring into the political situation in Germany by day I have been studiously observing how Berlin conducts itself by night.

Let me say at the outset I am the worst possible man for such an investigation. In London my very presence can reduce the most hilarious party to the deepest gloom. I am in a perpetual condition of wanting to go home when the rest of the party are loudly asserting that "the evening has not yet begun." When hospitable friends therefore suggested personally conducted tours of Berlin cafes I feared the worst.

At first I thought that it had come. The tour did not begin until an hour when I had hoped it might be ending. Berlin night life does not really begin apparently until the next morning. But I must confess that from the moment we started, about midnight, my yawns ended. For Berlin night life, unlike any other night life I have seen, is night life, and it is enjoyed by German people. It is not night club life invented for the tourists. I have seen night clubs in Sydney and New York, Bombay and Winnipeg, and for all the variety there was in them I might never have left London.

Pursuing the Bath Eun.

But the Vaterland Haus, our first house of call, has to be seen to be believed. It is an immense glass house built tier on tier, rather like a design for the jacket of an Aldous Huxley novel. On each floor there are two restaurants, each representing a country and decorated like a Drury Lane conception of it. Thus in search of a Bath bun you find yourself in a Texas bar, not merely with cowboys and wild logs, but complete to the last Hollywood detail with pictures of President Lincoln on the wall.

We moved to the floor below for coffee and had it presented to us by girls in peasant dress before a back-cloth of mountains and forests, to the tune of "Auf Wiedersehen" played by an orchestra arrayed like members of the chorus of "White Horse Inn." Arthur Collins himself could not have staged better the storm over the Rhineland, with thunder and lightning, followed by the sun and a rainbow, which we found taking place through the door opposite. This last entertainment we were allowed to witness without even the purchase of a roll and butter.

After this it seemed quite tame to go on to places where every table was equipped with a telephone so that one could talk across the room and be heard above the blare of the band, on where one could eat sandwiches round a lily pond with trees and real birds in the branches.

Einstein's Game.

But it is not only the middle class that can have its fun at night; it is all classes. Our next stopping place was completely different—wooden tables and chairs and bare walls. It was the meeting place of old fashioned Bohemia.

Einstein plays chess there, very badly, I was told. He achieves his real successes at a game called "Go," which has been known to take seven years to finish.

We plunged into working class Berlin. Though it was between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m., the cafes were as full and as noisy as in England four hours earlier. The talk was all of politics, and at times it flared up into an ugly brawl. Political feeling runs so high in these days that it is regarded as highly unsafe for either Communists or Nazis to stray outside their own political cafes. The hatreds of Moslems and Hindus hardly rival the antagonisms of political parties in Germany to-day.

Free Bread With Beer.

Here, too, I was brought right up against the agonising poverty of Berlin. I met men who admitted—and their appearance was a witness to the truth of their words—that they had not eaten meat for a month. It is the pleasant custom of some cafes to provide rolls of bread free of charge, like the salt and the mustard in English restaurants. Thus the purchase of a glass of beer gives the right to free bread, and thousands of unemployed exist for weeks on no other diet.

They will sit half the day and all the night sipping their one glass of beer. But they will see more drama than in any cinema.

The barman will be quite likely a Russian aristocrat who will be persuaded to describe the orgies of the Revolution, and before the evening is out an ex-Prussian officer, imagining himself back in the gay arrogant days of pre-war militarism, will be challenging for some fancied slight his neighbour to a duel.

At three o'clock the cafes close, but night life does not close with them. There are cafes which open only when the rest have closed down. Timidly I suggested that three o'clock in the morning was not an unreasonable time to go to bed, but my friends were as adamant as the Government Whips during an all-night sitting. I must see it through.

In six hours I had seen at least three facets of contemporary Berlin—the hectic gaiety that accompanied and followed the inflation, the indomitable courage of starving men, and the murderous violence of party politics.

The problem that remains unanswered is: When does Berlin sleep?

Winter Ills Forecast

By Dr. Edward Kelly, M.U.G., A.D.

Blue-nosed, we stand forth as the representatives of those people who don't want to be cured by professional etiquette.

We are convinced that, with the approach of winter, the people should be told of the remedies our grandmother used to use on our grandfather.

There was BLEEDING AT THE NOSE, for instance. All you had to do was to shove a door-key down your back.

Then there were HICCUPS.

While holding the breath, place the fingers behind the ears and drink a glass of water, at the same time counting up to one hundred in a low, deep voice.

FAINTINGS AND SWOONINGS.—First form a large circle around the patient so as to give her air. When only one person is in attendance it is best to round up a few of the neighbours. Next, loosen the clothing. You can go as far as you like with this, providing there are no wowers in the gathering.

Next, burn a fowl under the patient's nose. Then rub the hands and feet thoroughly.

HALITOSIS, or BAD-BREATH, is an easy one. Cloves or peppermint chewed thoroughly will help a great deal, although some pin their faith in liquorice to alleviate this distressing complaint. On no account eat scented lozenges. Wives are a wake-up to this straight away.

BURNS.—There is no cure for Burns. The only way is to knock off reading him.

CHICKEN POX.—See Poultry section.

In conclusion, an onion worn around the neck will ward off colds and practically anything else, and for bed sores, don't forget that spirits is still the best remedy of all. It may be taken neat or with a dash of milk.

Quinine and whisky are quite definitely not good for fever, unless someone else drinks the quinine.

BURMA SURPRISE

ANTI-SEPARATIST MAJORITY

ELECTION RESULT

Rangoon, Nov. 17. The electorate sprung a profound surprise upon official circles in the elections to the Legislative Council.

The main issue between the candidates was whether or not Burma should be separated from India. The separation was recommended at the meetings of the Burma Round Table Conference and it was thought that the majority of the people of Burma were supporters of the separatist movement.

The anti-separatists, however, obtained forty-one seats and the separatists only 28. Neutrals were elected to nine seats, while two results are still outstanding. In one of these, all the candidates are anti-separatists.

Thus the Legislative Councilors who are opposed to separation will have a complete majority of contested seats.

It is still hoped by the Separatists, however, that a change of view will prevail before the meeting of the Council, in which there are also twenty-three nominated and ex-officio members.—Reuter.

MISTAKEN IMPRESSION.

Answering a Commons question regarding the Burmese elections the Secretary for India, Sir Samuel Hoare, said the position was not yet clear, but he had good reason to believe that many of those who voted for the anti-separation candidates were still under the mistaken impression that it was open to Burma to enter the Indian Federation on terms that would enable her to leave it when she wished.

The Prime Minister indicated on 12th January, and he himself stated in sufficiently plain terms on 27th June, that this was not a contingency which the Government were prepared to contemplate.

THE ALTERNATIVES.

The alternatives before Burma were on the one hand separation from India in the immediate future and the pursuit of her own political destiny on the basis of the constitution outlined by the Prime Minister and on the other, entry into the Indian Federation, in which case she would remain a province of India and would have no means at her disposal for withdrawing from the Federation.—British Wireless.

HONDURAS REVOLT

DISCONTENT-AT OUTCOME OF ELECTIONS

London, Nov. 16. Three hundred were killed and wounded in a twelve hour battle fought for the possession of the town of San Pedro on the north coast of Honduras, which is one of the first towns captured by the rebels in the rebellion started yesterday by discontented supporters of Sr. Angel Huarte, the defeated Liberal candidate for the Presidency.

Latest reports state that Federal forces are now storming San Pedro in an attempt to recapture the place.—Our Own Correspondent.

GOVERNOR MURDERED

Tokyo, Nov. 16. Heavy losses in the typhoon are revealed in official figures that have been published.

In Tokyo and the six neighbouring prefectures there are 63 dead and 46 injured while 62 people are reported as missing. 4,792 houses were destroyed, 10,287 partially destroyed and 62,943 flooded.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

DISPUTE OVER A CAR SALE

PURCHASER ALLEGES WARRANTY BREACH

COUNTER-CLAIM

A claim for $1,011.20, balance due on a car sold to Albrecht Sander, c/o Messrs. Sander, Weller & Co., Des Voeux Road Central, on April 30th of this year, was made by the Asiatic Motor Car Co., Ltd., 439-445, Hennessy Road, Wanchai, at the Supreme Court this morning before the Pulane Judge (Mr. Justice Wood).

The claim was admitted by the defendant who was represented by Mr. Nigel (Messrs. Hastings, Denny & Bowley) and who issued a counter claim in which he stated that at the time of the sale the car was warranted to be the latest model Auburn Custom Sedan, which car contains certain features of construction, namely Startrix, Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. The car supplied to defendant was not the latest model but a 1931 model and did not contain the special features enumerated.

"NOT IN RUNNING ORDER."

It was warranted at the time of sale to be in perfect running condition and without any defects. The car was, in fact, not in running order and the sum of $72.40 had already been spent by defendant in putting the car in good running order. He counter claimed for damages for breach of warranty and $72.40 the cost of repairs executed by him. He limited his counter claim to $1,000.

Mr. F. C. E. Rendall (Messrs. Russ and Co.) appears for the plaintiffs.

$4,000 PAID.

Mr. Nigel stated that the action was started in Original Jurisdiction and of the $5,011.20 owed by the defendant $4,000 had been paid on account and an additional $112.20 was paid at a later date to bring the action within the jurisdiction of the Summary Court.

Defendant stated he offered $5,000 for the car on the understanding that the car was the latest model and in perfect running order. The car was delivered at his house and at first everything seemed in order. After a week or two he had to send the car to the company's offices to be attended to but apparently they did nothing to it. He consulted outsiders and was told that the machinery was not in order and the wheels were not properly set. He wrote to the plaintiffs, who, in reply, did not deny that the car was not the latest model but stated they would prove it was the latest model.

FOOTBALL CHANGES.

Alterations in Fixtures for Interport Week.

OTHER ARRANGEMENTS.

Owing to the Interport football team being in Shanghai on Saturday November 26, all matches fixed for that day will be postponed with the exception of the fixture between the Navy and the Club de Recreation on the latter's ground. This game will not be affected as neither side will have any players absent with the inter-ports.

Other alterations are notified by the Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association. On Saturday next, November 19, the Second Division match between South China and the Lincolnshire Regiment will be played at Chatham Road at 4.15 p.m. and not at Caroline Hill as originally fixed.

On Saturday, November 26, the Royal Artillery and St. Joseph's College in the Second Division will play at Happy Valley at 2.45 p.m. while the Chinese Athletic and Kowloon will play on the Club ground (home ground of Chinese Athletic) at 4.15 p.m.

INVENTOR AT NINE

CAR-THIEF WARNING ON SOAP-BOX "CAR"

A boy of nine, Kenneth Cheeseman, of Constantine-road, Colchester, was demonstrating an invention of his own at the International Exhibition of Inventions at Westminster.

Kenneth, the youngest exhibitor, has invented an ingenious device for preventing the theft of motor-cars.

Through a hidden key switch normal circuits are diverted so that when the car thief puts his foot on the accelerator or takes off the brake—

An electric siren shrieks. A red light flashes in the head lamps.

"You see," Kenneth explained to a reporter, "I have a home-made motor-car. It is really a

MOTHER MEETS LONG-LOST DAUGHTER

Unable to Speak Same Language

After a search lasting nearly 20 years a Southend mother, Mrs. Argurios Georgiades (who was born in Wales), has been reunited to her lost daughter, Theodora.

In the Balkan War of 1912, when the family were living in Greece, they were forced to take refuge in a French warship. Theodora, then five months old, was left in Athens in charge of a nurse and, when her parents returned for her, both had disappeared.

Recently she was traced by her father, a naturalised Englishman, to Belgrade, where she was living under the name of Alexandra Savitch.

Theodora's only words of English when she met her long-lost mother were, "Mamma darling." She repeated them over and over again, crying for joy.

Her two sisters and her brother, whom she has never seen before, speak only English, and one of them a little French. Theodora speaks the Serbian language, a little German and a little French. The mother speaks English and Welsh, but Mr. Georgiades acted as interpreter.

LINK OF MUSIC.

Music has broken down the barriers between Theodora and her brother for, though they cannot understand each other's languages, they spent a great deal of time to-day playing together, the girl at the piano accompanying the boy on his violin.

One of the girls was born in Athens, the other in Southend and the boy in Birmingham.

Theodora was adopted from a Serbian orphanage by a Savitch, then a millionaire newspaper owner. He went bankrupt during the war, but provided the girl with a good education in Vienna.

It is not unusual in the Balkans to find newspaper advertisements from children trying to trace their parents from whom they were separated during the Balkan wars.

EXPRESS HELD UP BY BOYS

JAMMED SIGNAL; THEN SANG FOR PENNIES

Three small boys, who held up an express train for 22 minutes by tying up the signal wires, heard the story of their escapade told in the juvenile Court.

Prosecuting the boys on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company, Mr. P. W. Pine said he had come down from London especially to deal with the case, which the company regarded as a most serious one.

"Children seem to know," he said, "that trains stop at the South Wales junction outside Temple Meads Station, and they often go there to collect pennies from the passengers by begging, singing and doing tricks."

"This case," he said, "is far more serious. In order to stop the Birmingham express the boys went behind the signal-box and tied the wires, with the result that the signalman could not pull over the lever for the express to go through and a lines man had to be called and the obstruction removed before the train could proceed."

A boy witness said he saw two of the boys level the signal wires together with a stone and then tie them.

The boys' parents were ordered to pay 10s. each.

MR. TSAK TSUNG-SAN'S INAUGURATION

Castrol
will
mix!

THERE are still some motorists who believe that CASTROL will not mix with other makes of lubricating oil. There is no foundation for such a belief. Although an oil of peerless quality, CASTROL mixes readily with any other brand of oil, naturally, also, one grade of CASTROL will mix with another. CASTROL "R" (Racing) alone is excepted and should not be mixed with any other oil or any other grade of CASTROL.

The full benefits of CASTROL will not, of course, be experienced unless 100% CASTROL is in use. Therefore, the pump should be drained and refilled with CASTROL to obtain immediate results.

ROBERTS LEAVES SPECTATORS BREATHLESS

AMAZING RUGBY BY INTERNATIONAL

PERFECTION IN EVERY PHASE OF
THE GAME

MAKES POSSIBLE CLUB'S BIG WIN
AGAINST H.M.S. TAMAR

Club "A" XV 21 points
H.M.S. Tamar and Small Ships 0 points

A display of perfect rugby, never yet equalled in Hongkong, was served up by John W. Roberts, the Cambridge Blue and Welsh International when he turned out for the Club against Tamar and Small Ships yesterday.

He followed up a brilliant individual try by making possible Ferguson's subsequent score, and in every phase of the game he was perfection personified.

Below will be found "Fly Half's" impressions of the game.

Those Club supporters who turned up at Happy Valley yesterday to see John Roberts, the Welsh rugby International play were entertained to a display of centre threequarter play so brilliant that they were often left breathless with admiration.

The game opened rather scrappily, but after Roberts had been given two atrocious passes right out of his reach, Rigg at last gave him a good one, and he ran brilliantly from halfway to score under the posts, a beautiful burst through the centre, being followed by a perfect side-step of the full back, all at full speed. Rigg converted.

Despite the valiant efforts of the Tamar team, who played with most praiseworthy vigour, the Club scored two more tries through Ferguson, who ran splendidly in each case, after Rigg and Roberts had worked out the openings. King converted one of these tries, and half time came with the Club leading 13 points to nil.

In the second half the Roberts-Ferguson wing was again outstanding, and each scored a fine try, one of which King converted to bring the Club's score to 21 points. The game ended in semi-darkness.

HALL MARK OF CLASS.

Roberts display throughout bore the hall-mark of class. There seemed to be no weak link in his armour. His attack was beautifully varied, the cut-through, swerve, side-step, dummy and short kick ahead all being used. His second try was a perfect model of the attacking short kick, and it is to be hoped that the Club backs were there to note how useful it can be when judiciously used. His defence too was above criticism, his tackling, picking up and kicking being alike first class.

Ferguson, playing outside him, revelled in his opportunities and in scoring three tries played the best game I have seen from him.

Grove also played well at full back, but the other players had to perform to yield the limelight to Roberts.

The Tamar throughout played up really well, despite the fact that they were without their full back who was playing for the Navy against the Army, and their wing forward who was "cracked."

ROBERTS ON SATURDAY.

Roberts has promised to play for the Club against the Navy on Saturday at the Valley 4.15 p.m. and I strongly advise any one who is at all interested in rugby to turn up and see how it should be played; and those who do not know the game at all come along and see what a thrilling game it can be when a man of Roberts class is playing. It is much too good an opportunity to be missed.

THRILLING GAME.

It is much too good an opportunity to be missed.

In a thrilling rugby game at Sookunpoo, the Navy tied with the Army, each side claiming six points. The game was full of thrills right to the end, and the senior service was fortunate to share the honours, their equalizer coming about two minutes before the end.

The score at half-time stood at 3-3. Macfarlane scoring for the Army and Barnes for the Navy. Lloyd and Doggett failed to add the extra points for their respective sides.

Lieut. Martin put the Army in the lead after the resumption, scoring a good try, but Lloyd again failed. The Navy strove hard to get on equal terms and were finally rewarded when Barnes again broke through to score. Doggett failed to add the extra points in a falling light and from a difficult angle.

FIFTH DEFEAT FOR
R.A.S.C.Signals Capture Mamak
League Points

(By "Bully Off")

The Mamak Tournament match yesterday between the Royal Signals and the R.A.S.C. was a very scrappy affair and resulted in a win for the former by the odd goal in five.

The Corps were the first to find the net in the opening stages of each half but were beaten at the finish. At the interval the teams changed ends with a level score of one goal each, and the Service Corps obtained the lead again soon after resumption. About half way through the second half the Signals again equalised and took the lead and match points a few minutes from time.

Lieut. Whitway-Wilkinson scored twice for the Signals, the third coming from the stick of Chaffey. Capt. Eve and Tipples were the scorers for the Corps.

EASY FOR THE CLUB.

The Club gained an easy victory over H.M.S. Kent on the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday winning by five goals to nil. They had the better of the exchanges throughout and Duncan in goal was not once tested.

The Civilians started with only nine men and about a quarter of an hour from the initial bully, Divett broke through and passed to Williams for the latter to open the account. Shortly afterwards Williams, following some fine individual play, added a second. The interval came with the Club two goals in the lead.

To-morrow

To-morrow's Telegraph will contain a whole page of Sports features.

The final selection of the Interport Football team will be analysed by "Veritas" and prospects of the trial match on Saturday reviewed.

Well informed and reliable comments and hints on Saturday's race meeting will come from the pen of "Ringtail", and our other well-known contributors "Stumper" and "Bully-Off" will deal with cricket and hockey respectively.

The Club continued to attack strongly and following a hard pass from the right wing Lay, on the left, slipped in and scored a goal which gave the Kent keeper no chance. Their next goal came after a combined forward rush when Divett snapped on to the ball just inside the circle and as the goal-keeper rushed out tapped it past him into the net. The fifth was scored by Williams from a melee on the right side of the goal and was a very lucky one. Owing to bad light the game was curtailed by ten minutes.

Absent from the Club side was Dand, the captain, and his place at centre half was taken by Lowe, who has recently been deputising for Rodger at back. Rodger taking up his customary position.

MRS. "BOBBY" NOW!

NO wonder she's a clever golfer—she certainly has had expert tutelage. Pictured here while she was qualifying in the Georgia Women's Tournament at Brookhaven Country Club, Atlanta, is Mrs. Bobby Jones, wife of the world's greatest amateur. She took up the game only a comparatively short time ago.

LIKELY WINNERS

London, Nov. 16.
Even extra time failed to prove sufficient for Altrincham and St. Albans to settle their fourth qualifying round of the Football Association cup dispute to-day, the game resulting in a draw of three goals each.

Gainsborough, however, succeeded in vanquishing Gresley Rovers, netting four times to their opponents twice.

REVISED DRAW.

The revised draw for the first round proper of the F. A. Cup to be played off on Nov. 26 now reads:

Workington v. Scunthorpe.	Accrington v. Hereford.
Darlington v. Boston.	Halifax v. Darwen.
Southport v. Nelson.	Carlisle v. Denaby.

AN ANALYSIS

(By "Veritas").

The tit-bit of the draw, which apart from Brighton, who have had to play right through, brings the Third Division clubs into the competition for the first time, is the meeting of Reading and Brentford on the Biscuitmen's enclosure at Elm Park.

Brentford, as yet undefeated in the League are strongly placed at the top of the Third Division, with Reading their closest rivals. The latter also enjoy the distinction of as yet being unbeaten on their own ground this season, and the advantage of playing before their own supporters should be just sufficient to place Reading into the next round.

The leading Amateur clubs such as Kingstonians, Wycombe Wanderers, Dulwich Hamlet and Ilford have been distinctly unlucky in the draw, all four teams being drawn away to Third Division combinations.

Margate, Folkestone and Dartford, Southern League clubs have been fortunate in securing home grounds in each case, and both Margate and Dartford should enter the next round.

THE PROBABLES.

If they play according to their capabilities the following teams should enter the next stage of the competition:

Scunthorpe, Accrington, Darlington, Halifax, Southport, Carlisle, Rotherham, Crewe, York, Hartlepool, Doncaster, Rochdale, Wrexham, Gateshead, Tranmere, Hull, Walsall, Dartford, Bristol Rovers, Northampton, Bristol City, Newport, Queen's Park Rangers, Margate, Bournemouth, Southend, Coventry, Norwich, Swindon, Crystal Palace, Gillingham, Reading and Luton.

Point Structure

OPENING SOON

In order to meet the demand for new and more spacious facilities for bathing and swimming, the Chinese Athletic Association have recently completed a magnificent pavilion at North Point.

Situated on the Shan Ki Wan Road, the building, which is to be opened shortly, cost over $3,000.

No less than 150 feet in length and 40 feet wide, the pavilion boasts a handsome verandah 12 feet wide. A slip-way runs from the verandah to the water and a platform extends from each wing, providing every facility for enjoyable swimming.

PERMANENT STRUCTURE.

The pavilion is a permanent structure mounted on concrete columns, with a wooden floor and asbestos sheeted walls. It is covered with a malthoid roof. It boasts a large reception room, 22 feet in diameter, ladies and gentlemen's dressing rooms, cloak-rooms, showers and the usual offices.

The building was designed by Messrs. Clark and Lu, architects, of Des Voeux Road Central, and the construction was carried out by Messrs. Hop Yie.

Then Denis noticed in an English magazine an announcement of the forthcoming seventeenth birthday party of Molly Cradock. He returned to England and arrived at Mildred's home on the night of the party. Mildred asked him why he had come, and intimated that he would spoil everything if she revealed his true relation in the smoke of gun powder and bursting explosives, and of a heroic company which was undermined and their embattled fortress blown to kingdom come. Since, much of this Universal film was taken on historical ground, the place where the Italian army fought the battle which led to a standstill for two years, every effort was made by the photographer to record conditions as they really existed in war time. "The Doomed Battalion" was an organization of picked mountain men, climbers, and marksmen, who held the most treacherous key crevices of the mountains of this Italian No Man's Land, but could drop from its heights to the valleys below.

The Central Theatre, is putting on "Caught Plastered", starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey to-morrow for one more day. This film which had a very successful run last week, is one of the best ever seen locally, to be the best comedy this team has turned out so far. It is their latest production, and their frantic efforts to run the Sunshine Drug store successfully keeps the audience in fits of laughter from start to finish. Those who are not of the opportunity of seeing this excellent comedy last week, should avail themselves of the final opportunity to-morrow.

MAY VISIT HONGKONG
EARLY NEXT YEAR

Mr. Malcolm Frost, who is acting as liaison officer for the British Broadcasting Corporation in respect of the Empire Broadcasting Service which will be inaugurated on December 16, will arrive in Singapore on February 3, 1933, and will probably visit Hongkong shortly afterwards.

Owing to the immense amount of territory he has to cover in a short time, it will be impossible for Mr. Frost to remain in Singapore or Hongkong for more than a day. Arrangements are being made in Singapore for all those who have views to express as to the nature of the programme and other details in connection with the Empire Broadcasting Service to see Mr. Frost immediately he arrives.

In the absence of official notification to the effect that Mr. Frost may visit Hongkong, no arrangements can be made in this Colony. Doubtless, however, advice will be relayed immediately it is notified that Mr. Frost will visit this Colony.

In addition to visiting Singapore, Mr. Frost is spending some time in India, Africa, Canada, Australia and other parts of the British Empire, in order to settle the final details of the scheme.

Arrangements have been made both by the Colonial Office and the Foreign Office to enable Mr. Frost to interview the authorities in each of the territories which he passes through, and it will be his object to ascertain as far as possible what are the desires of each Colony and Dominion as regards the programme which will be broadcasted from the Empire Station. This will mean a discussion of programme material, the possibility of exchanging programmes with those Dominions which have their own broadcasting services, and with the scope for "recorded" programmes which can be supplied on a series of gramophone records to occupy any specified period.

B.B.C. Press Policy.

Apparently, it will be the policy of the B.B.C. to publish the full details of the Empire programmes in "World Radio", which is one of their publications, but, at the same time, Mr. Frost will make it his business during his tour to arrange with the various Colonial and Dominion papers that they will publish the main items.

Incidentally, Mr. Malcolm Frost, who is still under 30, was originally interested in a small private company which was proposing to organise a Colonial Broadcasting Service. On behalf of this company he has already made one complete tour around the Empire, but when the B.B.C. decided to enter the field of Empire Broadcasting, this small company naturally collapsed, and Mr. Frost has been absorbed into the B.B.C. organisation.

NANKING'S ORDER.

OFFICIALS TO BE PROCEEDED AGAINST

Nanking, Nov. 16.
The Central Political Council, after consideration this morning, ordered Li Kuo-chieh and Chen Fu-mu, the Vice-Minister of Communications, to be dealt with according to law for the part they played in the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company transaction.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

Ministry Consideration.

Nanking, Nov. 16.
Interviewed at the aerodrome before his departure for Shanghai, Mr. T. V. Soong stated that the Ministry of Communications was studying the question of the cancellation of the China Merchants' mortgage agreement. The Government had already instructed Mr. Chen Fu-mu, who had signed the agreement to proceed immediately to Nanking for questioning.

Questioned regarding the alleged League proposal for an international committee on Far Eastern question, Mr. T. V. Soong denied any official knowledge.—Reuter.

SATURATION POINT

TO reach Saturation Point is the ambition of every manufacturer and producer. It signifies that the sales of his product have absorbed output. In these days not many products attain Saturation Point; production is generally greater than demand.

IT is not so with soft wood. Here Saturation Point is reached and passed; sufficient timber cannot be cut to cope with the world's needs. Moreover, forestry utilization has been brought to such a fine art that there are now over 4,000 proved uses for pine timber alone, such as is grown in selected areas in New Zealand.

IN these fertile islands the N. Z. Perpetual Forests Limited has evolved a scheme of afforestation which is putting pine tree (i.e. soft wood) growing on a practical and profitable basis.

TO date over 85,000 investors of moderate means have collectively purchased more than 127,500 bonds, enabling them to share in the rich return their long-sighted investment must bring.

THEIR capital is steadily working in New Zealand forests producing the right kind of pine trees to meet the approaching world famine in industrial timber.

BONDS yielding approximately £250 in twelve years, costing £30 each—payable by instalments—may now be secured. WRITE for the prospectus covering the present issue and see how to get in on the "ground floor."

ALLEGATIONS OF FRAUDWELL-KNOWN CHINESE ACCUSED

Amazing allegations of how a man was able to seize a vast business in Hongkong, with ramifications in French Indo-China, run it in the way he wished, and keep the partners and shareholders in subjugation for a period of years, were made by the prosecution when the trial opened at the Central Court yesterday of Chan Sik-nin, well-known Hongkong merchant and former Director of the Tung Wah Hospital, who was charged with fraud.

There are four charges against the accused, of forging and uttering a power of attorney, and by its means to have seized, controlled and managed the Chinese medicine business known as the King Fook Wo, of 66, Bonham Strand East, and to have misappropriated monies, goods and chattels of the firm to the extent of over a lakh.

For the accused, Mr. F. X. D'Almada returned a plea of "not guilty."

The Magistrate (Mr. Schofield) said that from the details already brought to his notice and the general character of the proceedings he thought it advisable to treat the case at any rate as a committal one—that was to say, take the evidence in the formal way as a committal case.

QUESTIONS IN COMMONS

London, Nov. 16.

In the House of Commons to-day

Mr. Wardlaw Milne asked what steps were being taken to keep the

Shanghai Municipal Council fully informed and were its views on all points being obtained in regard to the negotiations for a revision of the District Court agreement.

Mr. MacDonald replied that the British Minister would keep in touch with leading members of the British community in Shanghai, including the English members of the Municipal Council in connexion with the matter and would take into account their views as far as possible on all points interesting

them before a decision was reached.

JAPANESE TO TAKE ACTIVE STEPS.REINFORCEMENTS ON WAY TO HAILAR

Tokyo, Nov. 16.

Despite the risk of Su Ping-wen slaughtering the 250 Japanese civilians whom he is holding as hostages at Manchuli and Hailar, the Japanese military forces appear to have decided to take active steps to punish the insurgents now that Su Ping-wen has definitely refused to negotiate.

The War Office announces that several hundred recruits of the Utsunomiya division are leaving Tokyo this evening to join the divisions at Taitshih, while Mukden despatches report that part of the Hiroaki division has left Chinchow en route for Taitshih.

Fearing the safety of Su Ping-wen's hostages the Japanese have so far refrained from military action but an official spokesman hinted this morning that it may be necessary to risk sacrificing them.

CALL OF THE WEST

he came into view of the corral below a dozen men leaped from the shade of the saddle house and ran for their rider and noticed that he headed for the corral. It was evident from the way he leaped far over the horse's neck that he was bringing news.

"It's down to the corral and see what has happened," Asper Delo's voice shook with excitement as he called to Dona.

"I'll be back in a minute," she replied over her shoulder as she ran down the steps.

The rider was pulling his mount to a sliding halt as Dona reached the corral. Malloy was first to reach him.

"Plenty!" the man grunted, sliding from his horse. He seemed to enjoy holding back his information. "Have they got him?" Dona burst out.

"Got him cornered and the gang is closing in on him. He was trying to make a break over the hill and into the cow country. The gang is up on the slope at the fork of the Blind River trail. They want all the rest of the men out there to help pull the net tight around him. There sure is going to be some shooting!" The man slapped his lather-covered horse. "Get me another nag."

"Get the roan ready and slip my rifle into the scabbard," Dona ordered.

Malloy gave her a searching look that trailed off into a cynical squint. "You got the fever, too?" he asked shortly.

"Possibly," Dona met his gaze squarely. "But get my horse!"

"O. K., ma'am," Malloy bowed stiffly and vanished into the saddle house.
